ALPHA OMEGA, established in 1884, at University of Rochester, Rochester, N. Y., by Oliver Durfee Clark, Henry Max Reichenbach, Henry Levi Ward, Thomas Cornelius Wilber, Clarence Waldo Baker, Fred Bullard, Nathan David Garnsey, Harry S. Hoard, William Edward Lockner, Frederick Lincoln Wing and Ralph Kempshall Wing. Gamma, John Conger Bryan, Φ'84, and Zeta, Charles Haynes Davidson, Φ'85.

In the spring of 1884, at the earnest solicitation of Chi Psi resident in the city of Rochester, a petition from eleven students of the University of Rochester for permission to found an alpha of our Fraternity was answered affirmatively by the general convention and Alpha Omega was established. The institution into which Chi Psi then entered was a comparatively small one, its classes averaging about thirty-five men. Fraternities had always been encouraged and five were then in existence, two of them dating back to the very earliest years in the history of the college, and all of them having long rolls of graduate members, besides large bodies of alumni in the city, which secured to them fine social advantages. Naturally, they absorbed much of the good fraternity material and the chances of success in the establishment of a new chapter were few. But, as often happens in the history of colleges, a time came when a goodly number of young men of fine character and ability decided that none of the fraternities in the college came up to their ideal, and they sought to undertake the founding of a new one. The establishment of Omega, considering the number and strength and age of the existing fraternities, was always deemed a matter of experiment, a striving against heavy odds. But the ability, scholarship and popular qualities of the petitioning students were such that the Fraternity gave them its consent to undertake a task from which those less courageous would have shrunk. They entered upon their work with zeal and vigor and showed a determination and spirit that early brought forth good results and seemed to promise the continued maintenance of a fine alpha. But even energy and zeal could not this time prevail, and the alpha became dormant in 1889.

Roll of members of Alpha Omega:

NATIONAL INTERFRATERNITY CONFERENCE DINNER. Chi Psi, through one of its more eminent members, A. S. Bard, X'88, was honored at the annual dinner of the National Interfraternity Conference held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, on Friday evening, November 29, 1940.

Before a capacity audience of 3,600 men and women, the largest ever assembled for a public dinner in New York, Brother Bard received a medal symbolic of distinguished services to fraternity life in particular and education in general. Chi Psi has every reason to feel rightfully proud of Brother Bard for his outstanding achievement.

Before the dinner, Charles E. Merrill, X'08, newly-elected Eighth President of the Fraternity, played host to about fifty Chi Psis.

ALPHA ALPHA DELTA, established in 1890, at the University of Georgia, Athens, Ga., by George Clinton Evans, Edward Washington Frey, John Hale, John Nathaniel Holder, Millard Cortez Horton, Ozé Enoch Horton, Eugene Bismarck Moore, Oscar Holmes Sheffield and William Norris Smith. Gamma, Augustus Thomas Cooper, B'92, and Zeta, John Howell Green, B'89.

IN 1890 there were lots of important events taking place. The fight over high and low tariffs was a burning issue in Washington and the country at large, John D. Rockefeller was chafing under the new Sherman Anti-Trust Act which Congress had just passed to curb the Standard Oil Co. The railroads were boasting over the fact that at last the country was connected East and West, North and South. The colleges were undergoing a fundamental change from the old type of classic education to the new type which included sciences. Prior to 1890 most college presidents were also ministers and the Rev. Patrick Hughes Mell was president of the University of Georgia. The campus was still agitated over the fight which had occurred when the LeConte brothers, scientists, had been ousted by the administration following a controversy. The science versus religion issue was red hot. At the University of Georgia in 1890 interest in literary and debating societies was still very great. Demosthenian Society had been founded in 1801 and Phi Kappa in 1824 to encourage debate and literary activity. Both of these societies are still active in 1940 and with the same alignment of fraternity men in Phi Kappa and non-fraternity men in Demosthenian. Social fraternities were slower in developing at Georgia but by 1890 there were eight social fraternities, founded in the sequence: S.A.E., Chi Phi, K.A. (Southern), Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Chi, A.T.O., Sigma Nu, Delta Tau Delta.

Inspired and encouraged by the success of Chi Psi in South Carolina, several young men at Georgia and two from Alpha Beta of South Carolina petitioned Chi Psi. This petition was heartily fostered by Brother H. C. Dargan of Upsilon and finally in a splurge of economy the Executive Council wired the group, "Granted." Thus began Alpha Alpha Delta in 1890. In the next five years fine progress was made in spite of the difficulty of opposition from eight older fraternities bidding for desirable students in a student body of slightly over two hundred.

Then came what might be called the "Dark Decade" from 1895 to 1905. Alpha Gamma at Mississippi had ceased to exist in 1891 but Mississippi was relatively far away. However, when Upsilon at Furman and Beta at South Carolina were killed by anti-fraternity laws passed in 1897 this was a real blow to Alpha Delta. Finally in 1906 Alpha Tau at Wofford was abolished, along with other fraternities, by an order of the board of trustees of Wofford College, and Alpha Delta was left in complete isolation from other alphas of the Chi Psi Fraternity.

With no other alphas of Chi Psi for contact and comparison Alpha Delta naturally used other fraternities at Georgia as a criterion and attempted to maintain a prominent position among them rather than among the alphas of Chi Psi.

The alpha was greatly helped in overcoming the difficulties of this period by such forceful and successful young men as Fair Dodd, '00, Homer George, '00, Paul Johnson, '00, and Carroll Cabaniss, '08. These men have all through the years given their time, their money and their encouragement to Alpha Delta. Although Fair and Paul are now prominent men with great responsibilities, they take time to help, as they did in 1939 to see that the lodge was refurnished. In 1911 Frank Davis came along and in 1915 Hugh Hodgson; these two men were dynamos of energy and raised Chi Psi to be the outstanding fraternity at Georgia. This position was maintained by the acquisition of excellent pledges, among whom Bill Mallory, '18, and Irvine Phinizy, '18, stood out.

It was thought at this time that a drive for a new lodge owned by Alpha Delta, which had heretofore occupied rented houses, should be begun. With the active cooperation of the men mentioned above, Hugh Hodgson directed the successful drive which ended in the purchase of the present lodge. This house was bought at an alpha at Georgia Tech in Atlanta and so urged the boys at Alpha Delta to assist. In spite of a traditional antipathy between Georgia and Tech, Alpha Delta did everything possible to aid. Ranny Whitney, '26, and Tom Whitehead, '25, joined Fair Dodd, John Armistead and Carroll Cabaniss in urging a charter for Iota Delta at the convention of 1923 at Hamilton College. This charter was granted and Alpha Delta was somewhat relieved of complete isolation. Chi Psi was invited to come to Georgia for the 1924 convention and accepted. This convention at Athens did much to bring about a closer relation between Alpha Delta and the other alphas of Chi Psi.

Incidentally, the 1924 Convention started a new policy of the Fraternity. At the Hamilton convention it was suggested to Tom Whitehead, Alpha Delta's delegate, that Georgia should invite the next convention, but after consulting with Brother Ogilvie of Alpha Phi about the expense involved, he didn't dare. He then consulted with Brother Piper and suggested that if the burden of expense was lifted from the alpha acting as host, all alphas would welcome the convention. Brother Piper concurred in this idea, it was put before the convention and passed. With spring in his heart, Brother Whitehead a bargain from Mr. J. M. Rogers, who was forced to redeem a mortgage on it. It is located on one of the best residential streets in Athens about a mile from the main campus of the university. The next five years, 1922-27, saw Alpha Delta prosper. The enthusiasm was high, pledging was successful and alumni interest active.

With the lodge question settled, the old problem of isolation was attacked. The Atlanta Alumni Association wanted to see invited the convention to Georgia, and ever since the policy has been unchanged.

In 1928 and 1929 the boom years came and then 1930. No one wishes to remember 1930, some were so stunned they can't remember 1930. Suffice to say, the depression affected fraternities. Alpha Delta went down with others. Finances were difficult to manage, boys had little money and many good boys could not afford a fraternity, many became inactive for lack of funds. However with improved economic conditions, the alpha has again improved and is rapidly recovering.

As we go into the year this is written we are approaching the fiftieth anniversary of Alpha Delta's founding. During this fifty years the University of Georgia has grown from a small college of two hundred students to a large university with nearly four thousand students. The original eight fraternities have increased to twenty-three, but in spite of the increased student body the competition for good material is still as keen as ever, because the type of boy attending college has greatly changed. Alpha Delta is again in need of a modern lodge located nearer the campus and it is hoped that this can be provided as soon as the remaining debt on the present lodge is liquidated. Alpha Delta is fortunate in having Hugh Hodgson, '15, on the campus, as Director of the Fine Arts Department, because his inspiration and leadership have been a factor for decades now. Alpha Delta is also represented on the faculty by Tom Whitehead, '25, who is Professor of Chemistry, and Comer Whitehead, '25, in the Registrar's office.

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA, ATHENS, GA. (Agricultural Extension Building.) Founded in 1785. The State of Georgia was the first of the original thirteen to take steps toward the establishment of a state university. In February, 1784, the legislature set aside 40,000 acres of land for "the endowment for a college or seminary of learning." Of this land, 3,500 acres are at Athens, and in and near that city are the beautiful and impressive buildings housing the ten schools and colleges that make up the university, with its 6,000 students. The old campus is located in the heart of Athens. Here are many historic buildings, including Old College, the first building; the Chapel, which is 105 years old, and the Academic Building, one wing of which dates back to 1831. Then there is the separate campus for the college of agriculture and the school of forestry, occupying 140 acres and using other nearby tracts that include over 3,000 acres. The third and last campus, some distance from the others, provides residence and classroom facilities for women students their first two years. Four new buildings have only recently been added to the physical equipment of the university. One of these is the Agricultural Extension Building. Another is LeConte Hall, the biology building. The teaching staff numbers 250 and the courses have a wide range. The university has kept abreast of changing conditions so that the young people of Georgia may enjoy educational opportunities equal to those of other states.—HARRY A. MATHEWS, AA'39.

50TH ANNIVERSARY OF ALPHA ALPHA DELTA. At the banquet in Athens, Ga., on May 20, 1940, celebrating the 50th anniversary of the establishment of Alpha Alpha Delta, one of the letters read was from Henry S. Ames, E'83, who was present at the celebration following the initiation of the founders and still does "cherish the memory of a happy evening and day following spent in the companionship of congenial souls." Letters from surviving founders included the following from Edward W. Frey, AΔ'92, of Hartshorne, Okla., written on April 28, 1940: "Yes, I was a sophomore, and one of the founders, or rather a charter member, since the credit of its founding is largely due to M. C. and O. E. Horton, who were also sophomores. It has been so long, and I have been in this country for the past forty years, that I hardly remember all the original bunch, but I do remember that the bunch consisted of men most all of whom took high standing in their classes and college activities (such as we had), of that time. I believe there were eleven of us: Dodd, King, Horton, Horton, Frey, W. N. Smith, J. N. Smith, John Holder, John Hale, O. H. Sheffield and Garland (law). I just wonder if I have this list correct. At any rate it was a dandy bunch of good fellows. I sincerely wish that I could meet them all, but just how many of them have crossed the Great Divide I do not know. I just wonder how many of my old professors are there yet. Chancellor Boggs, succeeded by my old townsman and friend, Sanford, Barrow, Charby, Protty, Snellings, Herty, Morris, Zip, Bocock, Hooper and maybe another or two I may not (hurriedly) recall. Many memories crowd my mind, too numerous to try to mention in one short letter. I love the old campus and everybody that ever trod it. There's been wonderful growth there since my day—only 33 graduated in my class—the state was too stingy with her university at that time."

OLDEST UNIVERSITY LIBRARY IN THE UNITED STATES, AT THE UNIVERSITY OF SOUTH CAROLINA

ALPHA BETA DELTA, established on May 18, 1894, at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa., by Harry Leigh Adams, Samuel Edward Beeler, George Warren Beggs, Jr., Frank Faust, Ira Miller Higbee, Arthur Frank Loomis, Thomas Charles Roderick, Ambrose B. Strickler and Alfred Mahlon Worstall.

EIGHT of the above named men were initiated into the Bonds of Chi Psi by the brothers of Alpha Rho at New Brunswick, N. J., on Friday evening, May 18, 1894. The ninth man, Brother Beggs, who was in Ithaca at the time, was initiated by Alpha Psi on the same evening.

The founding of the alpha was, perhaps, more accidental than is usually the case, the founders not being organized or bound together in any way other than by the ordinary bond of friendship. They were all men who recognized the value of, and the advantages to be derived from, the influence, support and name of a conservative Greek-letter fraternity of long standing and high rank, and were practically all men who had been approached upon the subject of joining a fraternity. Most of them felt, however, that there was none at Lehigh at that time which entirely measured up to the standards of the better fraternities with which they were more or less familiar at other colleges, and they were hesitant about accepting invitations on that account.

This was particularly true in the case of A. M. Worstall, who had as a very intimate friend a Chi Psi at Rutgers. In discussing the situation with him, the possibility of founding an alpha of Chi Psi at Lehigh naturally came into their minds, and the more they thought of the scheme, the more feasible it sounded to them. Knowing some of the above-named men to be in the same state of mind as himself, he felt certain that he could interest them in his idea and gain their support. This he found to be the case, and not only did they express their desire to join him, but some were able to name other men who they were sure could be persuaded to help make up the petitioning body. When this work was completed, the nine men filed their application and awaited the announcement of the opinions of the alphas with no little impatience. In a surprisingly short time they received word that their application had been granted, the vote of the alphas being unanimous, and that a charter was to be granted. Very shortly after hearing of their rare good fortune, a telegram from Brother Turner of the Executive Council was received, requesting them to be present at Rutgers for the initiation on the following Friday night. Due to the short notice given, Brother Beggs was not able to accompany them, it being necessary that he be in Ithaca at the time. This, however, did not materially interfere, as it was arranged that he be taken into the Bonds of Alpha Psi on the same evening.

The initiation over, and with the first knowledge and realization of what Chi Psi ideals were, and for what Chi Psi stood, they returned, eager to make a start on the work before them of building up an alpha which should measure up to the standard set by the others. They felt that, being a new alpha, they were a weak link in the chain, and knowing "uniformity throughout" to be one of the features of which the Fraternity was most proud, they set to work with great vigor and enthusiasm to fulfill the trust which had been placed in them.

As is so often the case, good fortune accompanied industry and before the month following the initiation had passed by, they had pledged five men for the following year and had secured a lease on one of the best fraternity houses at Lehigh. This they felt to be a great stride, as they realized the impracticability of the brothers living apart and still maintaining their unity for any length of time. While regular meetings were held at the different rooms of the brothers and a great deal of work was done, the inconvenience entailed made this fact only the more evident. Besides these accomplishments, paraphernalia for conducting initiations and meetings was secured, by-laws were drawn up, and officers elected. By the end of June everything was in shape to start off the following year in a routine sort of way, and the brothers disbanded to spend the summer with the free conscience that goes with the knowledge of a duty well done.

from that of a new one. At the outside only thirty per cent of the men were fraternity material. Considering that Lehigh's average number of students was six hundred and fifty and that there were eighteen other fraternities, it is evident that there was a great scramble for good men. Not having alumni on whom they could depend for aid in the matter of getting men, they had to rely on their own activity and upon the assistance of brothers from other alphas. For this reason their chief source of worry, and by far the biggest part of the task before them, was that of getting new men, and it was only through untiring efforts on their part that they were successful.

The manner of conducting meetings was discussed thoroughly and order was fixed upon. The regular weekly meetings were held, every fourth one being devoted to debates, papers and informal discussions on various topics of Fraternity history and interest. At the same time other details were reduced to routine form and the alpha began to assume its normal shape. Affairs went along thus for quite a long time, the alpha losing a number of men each year by graduation and other causes, and taking in about the same number from each incoming class. Gradual changes were made from time to time as they became necessary, but nothing of a radical

LODGE OF ALPHA BETA DELTA

Immediately upon coming together in the fall, the brothers who were not lost by graduation initiated the five pledged men, in order to have their assistance in the work of entertaining new men and organizing the alpha. They were fairly successful in this, and pledged two men, who were initiated soon after. At this time they first began to realize that conditions at Lehigh were far from ideal from a fraternity's standpoint, and especially nature. The brothers were active in college and social affairs, mingling as much as possible with other men, and thus continually striving to bring the Fraternity at Lehigh to that foremost rank to which Chi Psi has ever been accustomed.

At all times during that period was the alpha financially firm, and it seemed that within a few years their dream of having a lodge of their own would be realized. While they owned no real estate or buildings, they had bought furniture and had kept their actual running expenses in excellent shape, incurring no debts of long standing and usually having a respectable balance on the credit side.

Throughout the whole first ten years of Beta Delta's history this atmosphere of prosperity was manifest, the topmost point being probably during the year of its tenth anniversary—1904. At this time the alpha had fourteen men, all leaders in college activities, and prominent in many phases of college life. The financial condition was also better than ever before. The prospects for the following year were good and everything pointed to an even more rapid growth. The first inkling of the coming depression was the discovery upon the opening of college in the fall that only four of the brothers who had been in the lodge the preceding year would be able to return. This was a jolt which should have awakened them to the necessity of putting forth every effort in the acquisition of new men, but being so accustomed to the position of independence which had enabled them practically to get a man for the asking, without any great expenditure of time or energy, they seemed unable to grasp the situation and could not realize that they were up against a really serious proposition. This attitude was, of course, only an added handicap, and it was not until several weeks more had passed by with no pledged men to their credit that it became evident to them that they must begin over and go to work in a new spirit. Theodore B. Brown, II'98, who was Visitor at that time, spent almost a month at the lodge, helping them in their rushing and in adjusting themselves to their new circumstances. M. B. Landers, Φ'03, spent the whole first term with them and was also of great assistance. It was only by very hard work that two men were pledged before the Christmas holidays, and with this number in the lodge they got along fairly well during the first half of the college year. At the time of the mid-year examinations a second series of misfortunes befell them, and when the new term opened only three men were left to carry on the struggle of maintaining the alpha throughout the rest of the year, and to meet the problem of setting it once more upon its feet at the beginning of the following year. This trio consisted of a senior, a junior and one of the recently initiated freshmen. It was impossible for them to hold regular meetings or to carry on the business pertaining to the general Fraternity, so their attention was concentrated upon the keeping up of the lodge and the matter of swelling their number in the fall.

To succeed in the first it was necessary for them to appropriate the money which had been so laboriously laid by, in past years, and even then debts were incurred which were not paid off for some time. They lived economically and ran the lodge at a minimum of expense, but in spite of this it was a heavy drain upon the alpha treasury, and the alpha did not recover from its effect for a number of years. In the accomplishment of securing new members they were forced to devise new methods of rushing and new ways of getting in touch with the sub-freshmen. After much persuasion they succeeded in getting a list of prospective freshmen from the registrar of the university and they wrote innumerable letters, paid visits, and enlisted alumni and brothers from other alphas in the service of looking up men, to such an extent that by September they had practically made up their minds as to whom they wanted and had made their plans as to how they were going to get them. This was a great advantage, especially in view of the fact that at that time the other fraternities had no such means of getting their men in line in advance.

When September came and the time for them to put forth their final efforts drew near, the two remaining brothers had succeeded in arousing the interest of every one of the alumni and of many of the other alphas. A number of the brothers were able to spend the first few weeks of the college year at the lodge, and helped in the rushing in every possible way. The result of all this preparation and work was exceedingly gratifying, and when the rushing season was over, six new men had been pledged, and all were interested, even before initiation, in the manner of restoring to the alpha its lost prosperity.

At this point another era of prosperity begins, although that position of independence occupied in the earlier years of the alpha's existence was not to be reached. Particularly from a financial point of view was the alpha pressed, being unable to recover from the strain to which it had been subjected during that one year of misfortune. The opportunity presented itself at this time to obtain a house which was as good as the old, at a cheaper rental, and this good fortune was a big factor in their financial rehabilitation. The condition improved steadily under the good management of the following years until 1911, which may in many ways be compared with the year 1904. At this time there were fifteen men in the lodge, all active in college and fraternity affairs. The financial condition was better than it had been in years—in fact, since 1904—and everything indicated growing prosperity for an indefinite length of time. It was found, however, that besides the six brothers lost by graduation, four others were unable to return to college, and only five men remained to handle the rushing problem at the beginning of the new year. These were unfitted for this responsibility in almost every way, lacking both the experience and the information in regard

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY, BETHLEHEM, PA. (Packard Laboratory, for mechanical and electrical engineering.) Founded in 1866. Lehigh University was chartered in 1865 to provide education and training for the learned professions but also technical training, the importance of which was just then becoming apparent in the development of the industrial and transportation interests of the country. Towards its establishment Asa Packer, of Mauch Chunk, Pa., gave $500,000. Other friends and alumni have contributed to the equipment and resources of the university. Today its endowment totals $5,500,000. From the beginning Lehigh has adhered to high standards, and its alumni have been markedly successful in nearly all walks of life. The college of arts and sciences offers the traditional courses of a liberal arts college, and in addition optional work toward such vocations as economic geology, education, journalism, psychology, medicine (pre-medicine), and law (pre-law). The college of engineering provides thorough training in chemical, civil, electrical, industrial, mechanical, metallurgical and mining engineering. Lehigh is fortunate in the picturesque beauty of its situation on "the breast of old South Mountain," in its proximity to population centers (Philadelphia 50 miles, New York City 90 miles), and in its location near industries, such as steel, cement, coal, silk, and manufacturing, where its graduates can find positions. At present there are about 1,700 students. There are three dormitories and twenty-nine fraternities. Living expenses at Lehigh are reasonable.—WALLACE P. WATKINS, BA'40.

to the material in the entering class, which is so essential. As was discovered later, the class was small, and the material poor, and with this additional handicap they succeeded in pledging only one man during the rushing season. They were very much discouraged over this poor showing and determined to do better. Taking a fresh start, they went over the class again, looking up each man carefully, and in this subsequent work they met with some degree of success, pledging two more men. Two of the new brothers had their homes in town and so were of no aid to the alpha as far as the steward's account was concerned, and with only six men living in the lodge, it was impossible for them to run it without going into debt.

The next year's delegation is ample evidence of the fact that those men had learned the lesson. Ten men were pledged, and of the seven that were initiated, none was lost because of poor scholarship. In fact, the whole period was one of unusual activity along all lines, much being done in the clearing up of old debts and the straightening out of the system of accounting, which had been in a hopelessly tangled condition during the preceding year.

Meanwhile, the alumni had been taking steps toward stabilizing the alpha and insuring its future, insofar as these aims could be accomplished through ownership of a new lodge, and on November 20, 1915, the first meeting of the subscribers to bonds to be issued by the Beta Delta Building Association, in the process of organization, was held at the Lehigh Country Club. The sum of $13,000 had already been subscribed toward the building of a new lodge in Sayre Park, on old South Mountain overlooking the campus. Application for a charter for the association was filed, and the plans for a native stone colonial type building, submitted by Tilghman H. Moyer Co., architects, of Allentown, Pa., were adopted.

On November 27, 1915, the Beta Delta Building Association was granted a charter and at the first meeting of the association on January 15, 1916, Francis P. Sinn, '04, was elected president; J. Arthur Frick, '03, vice-president, and A. B. Strickler, '96, secretary and treasurer. The new lodge was completed under the direction of the finance committee, composed of A. B. Strickler, chairman; J. Arthur Frick and W. H. Myers, '03, and the first meeting of the alumni association was held in it in November, 1916.

The new lodge and new enthusiasm brought prosperity to the alpha until the time of the World War. During that period it was practically dormant, as for a while there were but three active men in the alpha and the lodge was used by the government to quarter men in training. In 1919 several of the brothers who had left for the service returned to college and through their efforts the alpha was soon back almost to normal, and by 1922 the depleted alpha was back to full strength once more.

I. B. Wheeler, '07, was elected president of the building association in November, 1921, and was succeeded by A. B. Strickler in November, 1926. During that time the alpha was preeminent on the campus and the internal affairs were so well handled that the alpha in 1925 was awarded the Thayer Trophy.

Samuel H. Shipley, '20, was elected president of the building association in 1927 and was succeeded by John R. Denise, '28, in 1929. Under the leadership of these men the alumni actively participated in the affairs of the association and its financial position was much improved.

Ambrose B. Strickler, '96, who had been secretary and treasurer, and later president, of the building association, died on June 5, 1927. In his will Brother Strickler provided for the payment of a note in the sum of $10,000.00, held by a York bank against the lodge. A $10,000.00 mortgage remained to be paid, but with the impetus of "Pop" Strickler's legacy, the alumni speedily reduced this mortgage.

A massive bronze plaque was placed in the lodge by the alumni in memory of "Pop" Strickler, on which appears:

"A founder of Alpha Beta Delta and its outstanding leader. His life was an inspiring example of devotion to Chi Psi."

Over the mantel in the dining room hangs a beautiful portrait of Brother Strickler, donated by his faithful valet, Tai Iwatsu.

In 1930 a spacious sun porch of stone and tile was built and the lodge room was entirely reconstructed, involving a total expenditure of $9,500.00. The building has been kept in excellent condition and needed renovations are constantly being made. The university officials have rated the lodge as the best fraternity building at Lehigh.

The indirect lighting system, recently installed in the dining room, through alumni contributions, is another of the substantial improvements made.

Harold Demarest, '34, was elected president of the building association in November, 1937, and in the spring of 1938 a drive to wipe out the balance of the mortgage indebtedness on the lodge was launched at a Beta Delta dinner in New York. The result of the drive was the burning of the mortgage at the annual meeting of the building association the following November, and today Beta Delta is free of debt.

The alumni and actives, working in close harmony, have brought the alpha to the preeminence it now enjoys. For the past nine years the alpha has been on the Chi Psi "Financial Honor Roll," during which period there was not one delinquent account or a deficit in any department.

In the field of sports, on the editorial staffs and councils of student government, Beta Delta is always well represented. It is proud of its achievements; it is proud of its alumni who have distinguished themselves in engineering, business, law and medicine, and who have remained true Chi Psis. It has proudly followed the precepts of Chi Psi, carefully guarding its secrets, preserving its traditions, and carrying aloft the ideals of the Fraternity.

ALPHA GAMMA DELTA, established on April 24, 1895, at Leland Stanford, Jr., University, Stanford University, Calif., by Joseph Philip Bernhard, Nello DeVore Johnson, Edward Neele Johnston, Charles Henri Labbé, Orville Montgomery Rankin, William Delbert Timm and James Owen Watson. Edwin Fish, A'87, Theodore Frederic Laist, Ψ'88, and Walter Edwin Winslow, N'90.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY was established in 1891 under rather unusual circumstances. Senator Stanford provided in his will for the founding of a university with an endowment which was then, and still is, one of the largest of any American university. Under the inspiring leadership of David Starr Jordan, who remained its president until 1913, and who built up an able faculty, Stanford almost immediately became one of our leading educational institutions. The campus is beautifully situated in the foothills near Palo Alto, about thirty miles south of San Francisco.

Coincident with the opening of the university came a rush of college fraternities and before the end of the first year, Zeta Psi, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Psi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Chi, Alpha Tau Omega and Phi Gamma Delta had entered the new field, followed by Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Delta Tau Delta and Beta Theta Pi during the next three years.

Alpha Gamma Delta was founded on the night of April 24, 1895, in San Francisco, at which time all of the seven charter members were initiated. The formation of the alpha was largely due to three men of the class of 1896, James Owen Watson, Nello DeVore Johnson and Charles Henri Labbé, who were acquainted with Chi Psi elsewhere and who came to the conclusion that this Fraternity alone met with their conception of ideals.

For some time the members of the alpha assembled in a room in Encina Hall, the men's dormitory of the university, but later took up residence in a house in Palo Alto with the other fraternities.

Less than six months later, a charter was granted at the University of California, and on November 1, 1895, Alpha Delta Delta was ushered into existence in the presence of all the members of Alpha Gamma Delta. Since then the members of these sister alphas have continuously maintained a close relationship, and frequently hold joint banquets in San Francisco.

The early years of Alpha Gamma Delta's history are years of bitter struggle. Established after many of the fraternities had a firm foothold, the cautious development of the alpha kept the members at a distinct disadvantage. Realizing that in small numbers there is greatest strength, the alpha confined its efforts to the union of a few. The outbreak of the Spanish American War precipitated the crisis, as seven members of the alpha answered the call for volunteers. The loss of other members by the uncertainty of human efforts proved almost fatal to the alpha, as during the second semester of the college year of 1898-99, there remained in college only Brothers Samuel M. Wilson and Frederick

G. Russ, and Brother Russ only part of the semester.

The hopelessness of re-establishing old conditions under such circumstances led Brother Wilson to recommend to the convention that it either declare the alpha dormant or send assistance. The spirit of loyalty and sacrifice of the Fraternity then was eloquently manifested. Brothers Walter Kempster Gray of Alpha Iota and James Bardin of Alpha Epsilon left old associations in the East to link their interests with the West, and in consequence of their unswerving loyalty and persevering service, the alpha was once more placed upon firm ground.

The prosperity that followed during the next year led the members of the alpha to seriously consider the proposition of building a new lodge. The lodge in Palo Alto was located more than a mile from the campus and investigation resulted in the offer of a site on the university grounds from the trustees. On March 22, 1900, the Chi Psi Lodge Association of Stanford University was formed with five members of the alpha and alumni as incorporators. Work was begun shortly afterwards on the new home. On January 1, 1901, the new lodge, a handsome edifice of Mission architecture, was formally opened.

LODGE OF ALPHA GAMMA DELTA

The alpha's history until 1906 is a tranquil and uneventful record of consistent effort to attain yet higher standards in the name of Chi Psi.

About five o'clock on the morning of April 18, 1906, the brothers were hurled from their beds by a terrific earthquake which shook the peninsula. All the members escaped from the lodge by jumping from the windows before a second shock carried the house off its foundation and made it a total wreck. Other fraternity houses were damaged but not so seriously. The lodge stood directly over a fissure of the geological fault and was upheaved and cracked through from front to rear before it settled into the basement. The famed Memorial Church of the university, the new library and gymnasium, which had never been occupied, and the museum were reduced to ruins.

"As our own house was a wreck and unsafe to live in," at that time wrote Ernest N. Smith, '09, "we received many offers of help from the various fraternities, most of whom offered to take us in temporarily. These offers we declined with thanks and set about constructing a new Chi Psi lodge in one corner of the tennis court. It was made of canvas and had but two rooms, but we were very comfortable and had no cause to complain when we considered the plight of many others. This camp was maintained for over a week, until it was definitely learned that college was closed for the semester."

Following this the brothers undertook the task of restoring the lodge. After many difficulties, the building was raised again to its foundations, and the damage completely repaired before the opening of college the following fall.

During the next ten years the alpha steadily progressed, and gradually increased its average membership to about twenty men.

Since the founding of the alpha various other fraternities have entered Stanford, including Alpha Delta Phi and Delta Kappa Epsilon, and there are now twenty-four fraternities in all on the campus.

In 1915 the 74th Convention of Chi Psi was held at San Francisco under the joint auspices of Alpha Gamma Delta and Alpha Delta Delta, this being the first time that a convention had been held on the Pacific Coast. Again in 1939 the convention was held in San Francisco.

Upon the entry of the United States into the World War in the spring of 1917, the majority of the alpha enlisted or obtained commissions in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps. Approximately fifty active and alumni members were in service during the war period. In the fall of 1917 only seven men had returned, but many of the other fraternities had suffered similar losses, so that the alpha was not competitively weakened, although operating under the difficulties attendant upon the abnormal war-time conditions.

Captain James S. Higley, '17, was killed in the Argonne while leading his company in the attack. An officer serving with him in his regiment, the 364th Infantry, 91st Division, reports that Brother Higley fell riddled by machine gun fire, after having conducted himself in this and previous engagements with the greatest courage, and having won the love and respect of his associates. In his memory a bronze plate has been placed over the fireplace of the lodge.

After the signing of the Armistice, the alpha became considerably larger due to the number of men returning to college from the service.

During the three years between 1917 and 1920, Alpha Gamma Delta twice won the silver Scholarship Cup awarded to the fraternity having the highest scholastic record. For several years immediately after the war the alpha was also unusually active in athletics, at one time having six "block S" men. In 1920, the alpha also had the unusual distinction of having two football captains in one year, when A. P. Holt, '21, after having commenced the season as captain was forced to leave college by reason of a death in his family, and C. A. Wilcox, '19, was then elected to the captaincy.

However, at about this time the alpha became very lax in its rushing and for three successive years initiated very small freshman classes. This condition was remedied in 1922 and from that time until the present, the incoming delegations have been consistently adequate in number as well as in quality. At present the alpha is well balanced, and is active in the various campus activities.

In the fall of 1928 the old lodge was completely remodeled, following the re-finishing of the first floor, with oak paneling, in 1927, with the result that Alpha Gamma Delta had practically a new lodge. Under the university regulations it was impossible to rebuild, but permission was obtained to remodel the building so extensively that it became entirely different in appearance, and adequate for the increased membership. The committee which accomplished this work, after overcoming many difficulties, was headed by Thomas B. Hunter, '04.

With attractive living quarters, and with an excellent personnel, Alpha Gamma Delta was thus established on a more substantial basis than at any time in her history, and from then on has enjoyed a consistently successful career.

LELAND STANFORD, JR., UNIVERSITY, STANFORD UNIVERSITY, CALIF. (Entrance view, illustrating the uniform Mission style of architecture throughout the university.) Leland Stanford, Jr., University, a private non-sectarian institution, was founded October 1, 1891, upon the Leland Stanford estate known as Palo Alto farm. It carries the name of Leland Stanford's only child, in whose memory it was founded. The university includes schools of biological sciences, business (graduate), education, engineering, hygiene and physical education, law and letters, physical sciences, social sciences, medicine. Stanford University is situated thirty miles southeast of San Francisco, in the Santa Clara Valley, close to the city of Palo Alto. The university site of about 9,000 acres rises from a gentle plain near San Francisco Bay, three miles east into the Santa Cruz Range. The climate is moderate and the valley is one of the most beautiful and fertile in California. The central group of buildings, grouped in quadrangles, are in an adaptation of Mission architecture, reproducing the typical open arches, long colonnades and red tile roofing of the old Spanish missions of California. The year at Stanford commences the last of September and continues through four quarters of approximately eleven weeks each. Any three of these quarters constitute an academic year. The emphasis in summer quarters is placed on advanced and graduate work. Stanford was endowed with the idea of providing for both men and women, in one university, schools and colleges of highest rank, leading to degrees in all the principal branches of learning. The object is to qualify students for success as persons and for usefulness in life.—CARL C. HEIDEL, ΓΔ'38.

W. LAWSON LITTLE, JR., ΓΔ'34, twice both American and British amateur champion, in 1934-35, is one of the great golfers of all time. Said Time magazine: "Son of a U. S. Army doctor, he had learned golf on a course laid out on the site of a Chinese graveyard near Tientsin where his father was stationed eleven years ago. He began to play seriously when his father returned to the United States. In 1927, he took to entering major tournaments and in 1929, at 18, accomplished his first noteworthy feat by beating Johnny Goodman, who had just beaten Bobby Jones, in the U. S. Amateur. Built like a half-back, 5 ft., 11 in. and 175 lb., Little is famed for his prodigiously long drives."

ALPHA DELTA DELTA, established on November 1, 1895, at the University of California, Berkeley, Calif., by James Alfred Bardin, Ralph Walton Bender, Fred Albert Bordwell, Charles Francis Craig, Clyde Algernon Allen Cross, Daniel Hinds Laubersheimer, Robert Graham Laws, Percy Gilmore McDonnell, Homer Charles Parker, Edwin John Sherman, William Whitney Wells and William Graham Wood.

In the spring of 1895 a charter in Chi Psi was granted to petitioners from Stanford University, and Alpha Gamma Delta was duly established at that institution. At the time it was thought desirable to strengthen the rather precarious position of this isolated alpha by the formation of a second alpha at the University of California whenever a good opportunity should present itself. Thus when, in the fall of the same year, application was received from students of the latter university, investigation was promptly made as to their merits, and, on favorable report, a charter was granted them. At the initiation banquet which took place at Delmonico's Cafe in San Francisco, the following twelve men were ushered into the brotherhood of Chi Psi as charter members of Alpha Delta Delta: Clyde A. A. Cross, Fred A. Bordwell, '96; Percy G. McDonnell, Homer C. Parker, Wm. G. Wood, Edwin J. Sherman, Chas. F. Craig, '97; R. G. Laws, D. H. Laubersheimer, J. A. Bardin, W. W. Wells, '98; and Ralph Bender, '99. It is highly significant that the Fraternity deferred to the decision of Gamma Delta in the matter of granting the charter, and that at the initiation an active brother from Gamma Delta, Brother Watson, presided as master of ceremonies, assisted by Brothers Laist, Ψ'88, Pond, H'48, and Greenbaum, Ξ'85. All the members of the Stanford alpha were present, and of the Chi Psi alumni there was a notable gathering at the banquet which succeeded the formalities of the evening.

Since the founding of Zeta Psi in 1870 fraternities have existed at the University of California. Chi Psi was not a pioneer in the field. This is her boast and not her reproach, for in the beginning the field was not a good one. Time has revealed the wisdom of a conservative policy.

Externally the new brothers were exceedingly well equipped, if they were to be judged by the standards usually set for pioneers. They were represented in all forms of college activities, holding such honors as the captaincy of both freshman and varsity football elevens, junior class presidency, and the management of the college annual, besides being active socially. Whilst it might require prevarication to make of them a model chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, there is reason to believe that they stood better than the scholastic average. They were also not unmindful of the necessity of organic strength. The first step in this latter direction was the acquisition of a lodge. A house was leased, and the brothers took up residence under a common roof. Constant association, one with another, strengthened the ties which already bound them together, and shortly effected the consolidation into a working unit of what before had been merely a congenial group. The first year of the alpha, terminating with the spring semester of 1896, and which had opened so happily, closed with a single loss, and but one addition to the little band which had entered upon it together.

Alpha Delta Delta began the second year of its existence at its lodge on Bancroft Way, two doors above Chapel Street. But seven brothers out of the twelve of the preceding term were on hand when college opened. After a couple of weeks of rushing this number was increased to eleven. On September 15, the alpha again changed its quarters, moving into a new lodge at 2643 Durant Avenue. On the following evening a farewell stag party was given Brother Bardin, '98, who was about to depart for Ann Arbor. The first term of 1897 opened with all the brothers back except Brother Laubersheimer, who was compelled to give up his college career. The college year closed on the twelfth of May. The alpha's part in college activities was just about on a par with that of previous semesters.

The fall term of 1897 opened with several gaps in the ranks caused by the graduation of Brother Craig, and the withdrawal from college of Brothers Sherman, Ladd and McDonnell. Brother Laughlin, '99,

The spring term of 1898 opened with eleven old men ready to resume their college work. The new lodge was most suitable for fraternity purposes in every sense of the word, and there was not a better one on the campus.

The semester was characterized by social activities as well as the usual participation in college affairs. About the middle of the term a smoker was given at which some thirty guests were entertained, most of whom were attending preparatory school. The following day was Charter Day for the university, and the alpha entertained during the afternoon, after the custom on the campus of keeping open house in honor of the occasion.

Alpha Delta Delta began the fourth year of its existence with seven active brothers back in college. Quite a setback was suffered on account of the fact that five upperclassmen failed to return. And added was the fact that the alpha initiated only one man from the class of 1902.

The last part of November the alpha gave another demonstration of its early nomadic character by moving into a new abode. The new lodge was well furnished and fitted up for the purpose, and seemed more suitable to the needs at the time. The second term commenced with ten active brothers on hand. The annual banquet was held in San Francisco together returned to college and affiliated with the class of '01. Two joint initiations with Gamma Delta were held during the term, at which two juniors and two freshmen were initiated, bringing the active membership to thirteen. Just before the close of the term a joint banquet was held with Alpha Gamma Delta. After the close of the term, the brothers moved into a new lodge on Warring Street, having outgrown the old lodge.

with the alumni. Immediately after the affair the alumni organized the San Francisco Chi Psi Alumni Association.

This period in the alpha's life was dark and discouraging. In 1899 only six of the old men had returned, and, through difficulty with the landlady, there was no house in which to live. During the summer, in spite of a lawful lease, she packed and stored the furniture, informing the expressman to hold it for the payment of his fees. From a legal standpoint, there was sufficient cause for suit, but disliking unpleasant newspaper notoriety, the brothers let the matter drop and redeemed the furniture. Just at this time a resident of Berkeley came forward with an offer to build a new lodge. This offer was seriously considered, but upon mature deliberation was rejected. Later developments proved the wisdom of this action. Instead, the brothers decided to rent, and furnish the house themselves, which proved thoroughly satisfactory. Three of them furnished financial assistance, thus making it possible to carry on.

Although many men were rushed only two were initiated during the fall. The third annual joint banquet with Alpha Gamma Delta was held on the evening of February seventeenth in San Francisco. It is interesting to note with what enthusiasm and enjoyment the alumni and active members attended these earlier banquets. These, together with the frequent inter-visiting, especially at initiation, have served as much as any other factor to bind the two Pacific coast alphas into a strong unit of Chi Psi.

Again in 1900, there was a very small delegation that returned to college, but they were imbued with the spirit of success. During the semester three men were pledged and initiated. The spirit of these men was further increased when Benjamin Ide Wheeler, newly installed as president of the university, paid the alpha a visit, during the course of which he made a remark of vast interest and satisfaction to every loyal Chi Psi. Himself a member of Alpha Delta Phi, he said that he recognized the very high standing of Chi Psi, and pledged his assistance in placing our fraternity in a position as one of the leaders in things fraternal at the University of California. Seven men returned for the spring of 1901, and each one was active in some line of endeavor. Three men were pledged and initiated during the semester, and several were pledged for the ensuing year. It was at this time that a movement was started in conjunction with the alumni to build a new lodge. This movement assumed a definite form, and later resulted in the organization of the Delta Delta Lodge Association. Owing to their small numbers, the brothers were somewhat handicapped in the struggle for college honors with the other organizations on the campus. The close of the term found the alpha in the most prosperous condition since her founding. But two men were lost by graduation, thereby leaving a comparatively large number of active men, and likewise one pledge to open the next college year.

In the fall semester of 1901 Alpha Delta Delta began to assume the place at California which she had been striving for during the past years. Six old men were on hand when the term opened, and as a result of their efforts, four men were pledged in competition with other fraternities prominent on the campus, pledged, and all were initiated. Not a "bid" was lost. The first initiation this semester, as on several previous occasions, was held in conjunction with Alpha Gamma Delta, and the banquet that followed was a very successful affair. Plans for the new lodge were not forgotten, and the work went steadily forward, both among the alumni and the active brothers. It was during the spring of 1902 that the Delta Delta Lodge Association was definitely organized. A site was purchased just a block from the president's mansion, and directly across the street from the campus. Negotiations were also started for a loan in order to build at the earliest possible moment. The alpha took a very active part in college activities during the term, pointing to a gradual advance for the better.

Rare, indeed, is that organization, be it a statehood or brotherhood, that enjoys a uniform prosperity. Dame Fortune's frown close follows on her smile. This simple adage is plentifully illustrated in the history of Delta Delta, for she has struggled to her present position over a most uneven course, and can look back alike upon multifarious bounty, and upon manifold tribulation. In this respect the fall term of 1902 is not hard to catechise. The recorder of that administration has marked it with gratifying unction, "one of the most successful years in the history of Alpha Delta Delta." All of the brothers enrolled the spring semester previous returned to register that fall and they were further strengthened by the addition of B. M. Ray, $\Gamma\Delta'$ 04. This bright opening was rendered more auspicious by the newly acquired asset of a commodious and attractive lodge, embellished with the recent purchase of furnishings. The change of quarters had a pronounced effect during the rushing season, which was a busy one, as may be judged from the size of the incoming class, which numbered 816, with a majority of males—record figures for the time. Even then Chi Psi conservatism showed itself in the selection of four men.

For the first time in several years the brothers manifested a considerable interest in outside activities, and, as a result, reaped a fine harvest of the much sought after "college honors." The alpha opened the second semester with eleven of her original twelve men back in college. Later in the term two pledges were secured. Of interest in connection with the university is the work upon the site of the famous Greek Theater which was commenced about this time.

At the opening of the college year in August, 1903, nine active brothers were back and prepared for a strenuous rushing season. After especially trying circumstances five good men were pledged and initiated. This was exceptional, for the entering class numbered only 718 men and women, and was very weak in fraternity material. The university had received as a gift the Greek Theater, having a seating capacity of over 10,000 people. Construction on the new mining building was under way, and California Hall was soon to be started. This general building up of the university was reflected in Alpha Delta Delta. Never before had there been so many active members. This was certainly the awakening period of the alpha. She had served her term as a "new" fraternity on the campus, and was assuming her place with the other leading fraternities. During the spring term two more men were initiated and here again we see the prosperity of the university extending to and influencing the alpha. Delta Delta took another stride forward. For ten years she had rented lodges—she had lived in five different homes. At last, at this time, the plans had matured for the building of the new lodge. A more desirable building site was secured, and the alpha's new home was soon under construction. President Elbridge T. Gerry, $Z'57$, paid the Pacific coast alphas a visit during this semester, and by a most generous gift materially

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, BERKELEY, CALIF. (View of the famous Campanile.) Founded in 1868, the University of California has grown to be one of the higher ranking universities. Situated on the sloping hills of Berkeley, directly opposite the Golden Gate, lie the five-hundred and thirty acres which comprise the campus of the university, upon which are grouped technical and cultural colleges, professional schools, the agricultural college, specialized research institutes, and a library which contains more than 900,000 volumes as well as some 16,000 periodicals. Although the University of California is one of the larger ones, it is not so large as to make the incoming freshman feel anything but welcome, for such is the California spirit. The new student will find a tremendous amount of activities on the campus to occupy his particular interest. The six major and seventeen minor sports give ample opportunity for the development of athletic skill. The four monthly and one daily publications give the student splendid training. There are managerial positions open to all those interested, giving many fine contacts as well as wholesome outdoor activity. The importance of the fraternity at the University of California cannot be over-emphasized, for in a school as large as this it gives the new student the added help that he may need in his period of orientation.—KELLOGG BERNSTEN, $\Delta\Delta'37$.

helped Delta Delta with the building of her new home.

Ground was broken for the new lodge in May, 1904, but it was not ready for occupancy until October of that same year. Naturally, since college opened in August, this was a handicap in rushing, but nevertheless, six much sought-after men were pledged, and initiated at a joint ceremony with Alpha Gamma Delta. Upon completion the opening of the new lodge was celebrated by quite an elaborate reception. The alpha began the year with nine old men, one transfer from Alpha Iota, and six freshmen. During the spring term two more men were initiated. Year by year the alpha had grown in numbers, and, at the same time, in importance on the campus. The list of college honors held had steadily increased, until at this time many Chi Psi held important athletic and managerial positions, and claimed many athletic honors.

During the summer of 1905 many improvements were made in and about the lodge. Most important of these was the fitting up of a lodge room and the arrangement of a freshman dormitory on the third floor. Mrs. Helen A. Cross, mother of Clyde A. A. Cross, '96, one of the founders of Alpha Delta Delta, presented the lodge with a handsome silver service in memory of her son. The enrollment in the university was constantly increasing and the pressure for more room was gradually being met. The Hearst Memorial Mining Building and California Hall, the new administration building, were being rushed as fast as possible, while plans for the great Doe Library, eventually to cost a million dollars, were put well under way. Progress in every sense of the word served to depict the condition of Alpha Delta Delta in the fall of 1905. In 1895 we were the least known of the fraternities at California; in 1905 we were universally known and respected and still on the upgrade.

With the withdrawal of three men from college, Alpha Delta Delta opened the spring term with but ten old men. A vigorous rushing season netted three men, who were initiated on the evening of February 3, following which ceremony the brothers from Gamma Delta and alumni in the bay region gathered for a joint banquet and to inculcate into the neophytes their first true glimpse of the Chi Psi spirit.

The memorable earthquake and fire of April 18, 1906, which devastated the City of San Francisco and played havoc with the buildings on the Stanford Campus, caused but little damage to the University of California. All university exercises were suspended for a number of days while the university cadet corps, comprising all underclassmen and many from the junior and senior years, patrolled the streets of San Francisco and helped civil and military authorities to maintain order. The only misfortune suffered by the lodge was the demolition of its chimneys, which, thanks to the generosity of Brother Gerry, were soon rebuilt without expense or inconvenience to the active brothers. Ray Gabbert, '07, as editor-in-chief of the 1907 Blue and Gold, as well as other members of that class, mourned over the few charred remains of the college annual, the entire edition of which, with the exception of a few stray sheets of copy, was destroyed in the bindery in San Francisco. Due to the complications arising out of the work of reconstruction of San Francisco, it was deemed advisable to terminate the college term a month earlier than usual, and when the brothers dispersed early in April for a four months' vacation, they left behind them a record of worthy achievements and a stronger position in the college world than ever held before.

Despite the presence of only one name on the rushing list at the opening of the fall semester, the thirteen men who returned to college for the fall term in 1906 set to work with a vengeance and pledged six men, five of whom were initiated on September 1 and the other on September 15. On November 24, Alpha Delta Delta was host at a smoker given primarily for fraternity freshmen. Continued interest was displayed by the brothers in college activities and consequently the alpha reached its highest mark in college honors. Brother Gabbert, who was without doubt one of the most prominent undergraduates the university has ever had, proved more than an ordinary leader and under his able guidance Chi Psi had a banner year in 1906 and 1907. For various reasons, five of the brothers either failed to return to college or dropped out early in the spring semester and the number of active men in the alpha dropped to fourteen. Theodore B. ("Dode") Brown, II'98, Fraternity Visitor, made a stay of several weeks at the lodge early in the spring and with his experience and knowledge of fraternity conditions was able to help Delta Delta in innumerable ways. The spirit of interest and enthusiasm in purely fraternity matters grew greatly during the semester and the alpha was blessed with a harmony and closeness of personal sympathy that rendered the internal organization of the alpha well nigh as perfect as could be.

With the opening of the college in the fall of 1907, Alpha Delta found her numbers reduced to nine. These men, with the aid of R. H. Lyons, IΔ'09, who transferred from Stanford, succeeded in pledging seven freshmen, three of whom were initiated early in the term. On November 1 active and alumni members of Alpha Delta Delta gathered to commemorate her birthday at a theatre and supper party. And again on Thanksgiving evening the alpha gathered to partake of a banquet, following an initiation of one neophyte. A new concrete sidewalk and steps were laid in front of the lodge just before college closed and during the vacation a spacious veranda was built.

With seven pledges to help them, the eleven old brothers had little difficulty in rushing and three more buttons were soon out. Early in September, 1908, nine freshmen were initiated into Chi Psi. With the increased number of men living in the lodge it was found necessary to partition off the large freshman dormitory. With the lodge in better shape than ever and with a harmonious group of men, the alpha made consistent progress throughout the year. The annual joint banquet of Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Delta Delta and the San Francisco alumni association was held on the evening of January 20 following a joint initiation held by the alphas at the Delta Delta Lodge. Excavation for a new lodge room in the basement was started and changes were made so that the old lodge room was made available for living purposes.

With fifteen old men and seven neophytes, Alpha Delta Delta became greater in numbers during the fall of 1909 than she had ever been before. The first initiation of the college year was held on September 2 when one sophomore and seven freshmen were taken in. On November 19 one more freshman passed the mystic veil. Poor scholarship brought an unexpected end to the collegiate careers of four of the alpha and with the opening of the spring semester of 1910 but fifteen men answered the roll. This number was raised to seventeen by the initiation of two freshmen on January 29. Following the initiation came the joint banquet with the brothers from Stanford and the alumni of the bay region.

On registration day in August, 1910, Delta Delta reassembled with eleven old men. Soon the alpha roll was raised to seventeen by the initiation of three sophomores and four freshmen. During the term John K. MacDonald, AA'07, the Fraternity Visitor, paid the alpha a visit. Many suggestions and no little help were the results of his stay. During this year the alpha took a very active part in college affairs with much profit to the individuals and a widened reputation for the Fraternity. The mid-year entering class, besides being small, was singularly weak in fraternity material, and but a single man was pledged and initiated.

An improved set of house rules was adopted during the term. Among other things, underclassmen were forbidden to enter any place where liquor was sold, on college days or nights. Stricter study rules for lower-classmen insured better scholarship. By the end of the semester the alpha had secured two pledges as a nucleus for the next college year's delegation. Affairs were somewhat handicapped by the fact that there were no active seniors in college, but as all of the exceptionally strong junior class were expected to return, the coming fall semester of 1911 was looked forward to as the brightest yet.

The alpha returned twelve men in the fall of 1911, which number was increased to nineteen by the initiation of two sophomores and five freshmen. Of these sixteen men returned for the opening of the spring semester, and this number was increased to eighteen by the return of Brother Johnson, '13, and the initiation of a freshman. The alpha maintained to quite an extent her active position on the campus, but nevertheless, the departure of the 1912 class left quite a gap.

The fall term of 1912 found twelve of the brothers back at the lodge. This number was raised to twenty-three by the addition of Brother Hegeman, who transferred from Beta Delta and entered with the class of 1914, and by the initiation of one junior and eight freshmen. A couple of weeks later still another addition was made to the freshman class. During the summer, Brother Cartwright, '12, with assistance, financial and otherwise, of some of the brothers and alumni, had done wonders for the lodge in improving its appearance. During the year scholarship was given a boost in the alpha by the presentation of a scholarship cup by members of the 1912 class. The spirit of progress was further increased by the acquisition of another lot adjoining the lodge.

With the initiation in the fall of 1913 the membership of the alpha was raised to twenty-seven and the next year it grew to thirty, the largest in her history to date.

From 1914 to 1918 Delta Delta enjoyed a period of exceptional prosperity and strength on the campus. Conditions in the lodge were excellent, from the point of view of numbers, finances and personnel. In 1915, added impetus was felt through the very successful convention of the Fraternity, which was held for the first time on the Pacific Coast, under the auspices of Gamma Delta, Delta Delta and the local alumni. The Panama Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco was in full swing at this time, and constituted the seat of much of the entertainment of the visiting delegates, officers and alumni of Chi Psi.

At about this time, there began a general movement for the acquisition of a new lodge for the alpha which did not cease until the objective was attained. The increased numbers, and the constant necessity of repairing the existing lodge on Hearst Avenue, just north of the campus, were two impelling motives behind the movement, but in addition, there was a well-founded feeling that the majority of the best houses were located south of the campus. The actives felt that these conditions were a handicap in the securing of new men. That they were right about this became apparent after 1917, when the lodge became so run down that the expense of annual repair became an extreme burden, both to alumni and actives. Various plans and programs of reconstruction on the existing site or for financing the purchase or erection of a new lodge south of the campus were considered but nothing came of the efforts for some years.

During these four years, it is safe to say that Delta Delta was among the three outstanding fraternities on the California campus, and for at least two of the four years, was the leading house of all. Practically every man of the several dozen who were members of Delta Delta at that time was a member of some one or other of the honor societies and other prominent organizations on the campus. Others distinguished themselves in sports, literary work, scholarship, managerial positions and a variety of other fields.

The entry of the United States into the World War in 1917, naturally played havoc with Delta Delta of Chi Psi, as it did with every house on the campus, and for that matter, in every other university in the country. The alpha can remember with pride the glorious part played by her sons in the conflict. They were found in every branch of the service, dedicating themselves with energy and devotion to the task at hand. No fraternity on the campus could show a higher proportionate number of stars in its service flag. The record of conspicuous and brilliant

But the significant fact is that he has already given to the world and to his friends and family the things that are of consequence. In his courage, his kindness, his courtesy, his thoughtfulness he has made his contribution and in the beauty of his character he will live in the minds of all who knew him."

These were some of the words spoken by Bishop W. Bertrand Stevens at the services on March 16, 1940, for J. Conradi Lange, ΔΔ'37.

Kenneth A. Carey, ΔΔ'15, Howard M. Loy, ΔΔ'14, John D. Wallace, ΘΔ'26, and John H. Peckman, Jr., ΓΔ'34, were pallbearers, and the honorary pallbearers were Henry O. Winkler, Γ'02, Walter Rath, Ψ'05, Alan Sharpe, ZΔ'18, and Ray Freer, Jr., ΓΔ'34.

Clarence B. Piper, Ψ'05, Thornton Hamlin, ΓΔ'16, W. W. Jewett, HΔ'34, Henry K. Halde-man, N'09, Horace G. Haldeman, ΓΔ'39, Al K. Hegeman, ΔΔ'14, and Merrick P. Winkler, ΓΔ'30, were others present at St. Luke's of the Mountains Episcopal Church, LaCrescenta, Calif. Rod's father is Henry B. Lange, Ξ'07.

Aside from his deep affection in his family and his keen interest in the engineering business in which he was associated with his father, Rod's principal interests and enthusiasms centered in the University of California, Chi Psi, and the Army, in which he was 2nd Lieut., 363rd Inf., U.S.A. Reserve.

Symbolizing these interests at the head of the casket was a purple and gold satin stole mounting his badge; over the center a floral scarf of yellow iris and blue delphinium for California's achievements by members of the alpha organization was also a notable one.

In spite of the losses from enlistment in the war, a few of the actives kept up the good fight, and the alpha went along, but not so strongly as in the years preceding. Even after the war ended, young men seemed to have other things on their minds than colleges and fraternities and in 1919, 1920 and 1921 a decided let down in fraternity spirit was apparent at Delta Delta, although a number of very good men still carried on the work. The general tone and the strong personnel that were in evidence in the years immediately preceding the war were, however, somehow lacking. Complaint was constantly made by the actives that they would never be able to get anywhere at all without a new lodge. The alumni were appealed to again, and at last things began to move.

In 1920, the real movement toward securing a new house got under way.

blue and gold, and at the foot a silk Stars and Stripes as became an officer in the Army.

He was accorded military escort from San Francisco to the Langes' home in Glendale in the person of Capt. E. B. Litteral, M.C., U.S.A. At the services there was a detail of six brother officers in full uniform headed by Col. Dallas D. Dennis, commanding officer of the regiment.

The music was largely drawn from César Franck, with interspersed strains of "Hail to California" and "Fair Chi Psi."

The blending of Christian faith and Chi Psi brotherhood deeply affected the Chi Psis present, and will be inspiring to others who read this. Wrote the rector of his church:

"I chiefly remember him in mystical but natural life at Communion. . . . I see him at the Gospel side of the rail, fair of face, fair of hair, fair of hands, and these uplifted. He was looking past-beyond me. . . . His glance was fixed upon the Altar. What it really represents . . . he now comprehends more than we. The sacred mysteries of the Altar are realities There."

Rod Lange died on March 13, 1940, at the Letterman General Hospital Presidio of San Francisco, San Francisco, Calif. He reported at Camp Ord, Calif., on August 12 for a two weeks' tour of active duty with the 363rd Infantry Reserve, and he planned with his father to attend the 98th Convention at San Francisco as secretary of the Southern California Alumni Association. He was stricken with appendicitis and operated on at the Military Hospital, Presidio of Monterey, on August 21. Following this came an acute attack of anterior poliomyelitis, and he was transferred to the Letterman General Hospital on August 25.

Through the aid of Edgar A. Jones, ΓΔ'03, an option was obtained on the present property on Piedmont Avenue, south of the campus, and committees were organized among the alumni and the actives to raise funds by subscription to purchase this property. The actives in the lodge at this time did wonderful work here, not only liberally subscribing themselves, but giving up a great deal of their time to soliciting subscriptions from alumni. One of them, Ed Lyman, '23, in order to help the cause along, took out a leave of absence for a semester, and traveled up and down the coast states gathering in subscriptions. He had great success. A total sum of some thirty-three thousand dollars was raised in this manner, and the balance of the purchase price, which exceeded fifty thousand dollars, together with the cost of making additions to and improvements on the property, including the furnishings, was taken care of by trading in the old property, and assuming certain mortgages on the new. The building purchased was a very handsome residence, and the location is amongst the most desirable on the campus. Delta Delta made a record in this adventure. The property having been secured by option in November, 1921, sufficient money had been raised by February, 1922, not only to make a substantial down payment on it, but also to make necessary changes and additions, and purchase furniture, a substantial part of which was donated by Edgar Jones, ΓΔ'03, and Mrs. Jones. The new lodge was occupied in February, 1922.

Following the occupation of the new lodge, the actives seemed to drift into a general atmosphere of self-satisfaction, so that the period from 1923 to 1926 witnessed less activity in college affairs, a looser internal organization, and a lack of cohesion that foreboded ill for the life of the alpha. Scholarship was poor, financial conditions were bad, and only one or two members felt that it was worth while to do anything in college affairs. Just about this time, the alumni awakened to the need of trying to inject a little life and spirit into both Gamma Delta at Stanford and Delta Delta at California. In consequence an executive committee of alumni was formed, with Charles Craig, ΔΔ'97, as chairman, which committee immediately got into contact with both alphas, visiting them three or four times a semester, and by advising and investigating, helped them to revivify themselves. Delta Delta finally took hold and worked itself out of its slump, so that in 1928 it had the honor to announce, to the great pleasure of itself and all the alumni, that it had secured first place on the California campus in scholarship among some sixty-odd men's clubs and fraternities.

Great improvement in internal organization, Chi Psi spirit and general cooperation was shown by the alpha beginning with the fall of 1927. Actives and alumni were cooperating, with a resultant rise of power in the alpha.

The general condition of Delta Delta was, at the beginning of 1929, excellent. There were some very strong men in the lodge, and the entire group seemed to have caught the right spirit, the spirit that means success for the alpha from every angle. The indebtedness on the new lodge was being reduced yearly; financial conditions were greatly improved, campus standing, scholastic standing and general deportment were noticeably better than for a number of years past. Everything pointed, indeed, to a brilliant future for Delta Delta at California.

The fall semester opened auspiciously for the alpha. A strong group returned to college and cooperated well in securing a good freshman delegation.

In the succeeding year financial difficulties arose. James A. Habbeger, ΓΔ'27, advised and assisted in their solution until business took him away from Berkeley. In the year 1930 the Mothers' Club was revived and has ever since functioned to the substantial advantage of the alpha. In this year Delta Delta and Gamma Delta inaugurated the practice of having a brother from each alpha attend the Monday night meeting of the other.

The financial slump of 1931 brought in its wake a general depression in the alpha, which was arrested by the visits of a committee of alumni from San Francisco, sent to investigate and demand improvement. Following came an upward swing of the pendulum and improvement was recorded generally in the next two years. Early in 1933 Jack Chaille, the Fraternity Visitor, spent a month at the lodge, Jim Habbeger was again helpfully on the scene, and every effort was made to assist the alpha in getting back to a stable basis.

But things looked black in the fall of 1933. A strong class had graduated in May and from the remaining classes there did not emerge the required leadership. Fortunately, Raymond A. Finn, '33, transferred from Theta Delta at this time, became No. 1 and commenced a job of rehabilitation, backed by constant alumni support from Charles ("Warpy") Craig, '97, Ken Hamilton, '07, Gil Sweet, '13, Gus Muentner, '14, and others. An excellent class was initiated in October of that year, and gradual but steady improvement was manifested for the next several years.

In 1936 the personnel of the alpha was conspicuous for its large percentage of legacies, a pleasing condition that always enlists renewed interest on the part of the fathers concerned. Finances were in good shape, scholarship was excellent and so were extra-curricular activities. That fall Kellogg Bernsten, '37, created an alpha newspaper, the Delta-Gate, which has continued to be useful in keeping alumni in touch with their alpha. For that college year Delta Delta for the first time achieved a place on the Financial Honor Roll of Chi Psi alphas.

The fall of 1937 brought back an enthusiastic group of brothers, and a good class was promptly pledged. Lewis L. McArthur, '38, was No. 1, carrying on the tradition of his father, Lewis A. ("Tam") McArthur, '08, who had been No. 1 in his day and who is known far and wide as one of the stalwarts of Chi Psi.

In 1938-39 events of importance included resumption of the fine old custom of a joint banquet of Gamma Delta, Delta Delta and the alumni in San Francisco; substantial improvements in the lodge and its furnishings, and the 98th Convention in San Francisco. With these must be recorded two tragic losses to the alpha and to all Chi Psi. On May 20, 1940, William C. Milton, '37, who was taking postgraduate work in public speaking and meanwhile sleeping in a room above the lodge garage, died in a fire there that started from a lighted cigarette after he had fallen asleep. It had been planned that he would entertain the forthcoming convention banquet with his inimitable gift of speaking. J. Conradi ("Rod") Lange, '37, was coming to the convention to represent the alumni association at Los Angeles, of which he was secretary. But in August he was stricken with infantile paralysis, resulting in his death some months later.

Following the convention a fine class was pledged, and indeed the personnel has continued to be most promising. As this is written, the recurring problem is a financial one, engendered from the fact that so many of the men come from the Bay region and live at home, while at the same time indebtedness on the lodge necessitates monthly rental based on a full house. Once this problem is solved, the continued success of Delta Delta seems assured.

CARL WHITMORE, ΔΔ'08, and LEWIS A. McARTHUR, ΔΔ'08, en route to Chi Psi Convention at New York City. (When this photograph was taken at North Platte, Neb., on March 27, 1907, note the devilish undergraduate ingenuity by which the car numbers were made to pay tribute to class loyalty!) Brother Whitmore has recently been elected a director of the New York Telephone Co. and also been made vice-president in charge of personnel for the entire company. His new address is West Street, New York City. Brother McArthur is vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Power & Light Co., at Portland, Ore.

SIMON CASADY, JR., $\Delta\Delta$ '08

A PROTEST

Prayerfully Dedicated to the Chi Psi Fraternity.

Sweet Gentlemen:

*If you should find
Aught in this screed which seems unkind,
Just cut it out. He who indites
These feeble lines no malice bears;
From out a loving heart he writes
And fain would bless you while he swears.
Himself, in other days, has been
A trifle prone to noise and sin,
A trifle skittish, and he knows,
The joy of making day begin,
Where honest clocks announce its close.
He understands the wild delight
Of prying off the lid of night,
And ripping up the atmosphere
With cat-calls which the planets hear.
He knows the song, the college yell,
The joy of raising merry hell,
At midnight, when the neighbors sleep(?)
And little owls their vigils keep.
He knows the mad exultant bump
Of dread pianos when they thump;
And honking autos hoarsely blare,
Their turmoil on the midnight air.
All this he knows, but gentlemen,
The years have run away since then
And now he lays him down to sleep,
And prays the Lord his soul to keep,
And, while about it, sometimes pleads,
That He who understands the needs
Of tired men, will drop a shot,
Of dynamite or something hot
Against the building on your lot,
Or open up the ground and make,
One frat house less for Jesus' sake.
Don't be alarmed, dear boys, for I,
Have often prayed without reply.
But honest now, 'tween man and man,
Let me suggest a better plan.
Just slow her down a bit and give,
Us older chaps a chance to live,
A chance to sleep in peace, at—say
From 2 a.m. 'til break of day:—
With now and then a night thrown in Sans cat-calls, yells or other din.
And furthermore if you could plan
To put a muzzle on that man
Who, "Loves her truly," shouting out
His awful passion and his doubt
From eastern windows, night and day,
Our gratitude would be your pay.
No more sweet gentlemen; you see
I'm gambling on your chivalry.
It is not malice makes you sing
Like tomcats in the early spring,
But indiscretion—youth elate—
Which bubbles over while you wait.
Not mine the hand your bliss to stay,
Each dog, I know must have his day,
But when the town is fairly red,
And a.m. stars creep overhead,
Please call it off and go to bed.*

ERNEST L. ("ERNE") SMITH, $\Delta\Delta$ '17, is a man with the sky in his eyes. It was in 1917 that he cut short his pre-medical studies at the University of California, traded a football helmet for one with goggles, joined the Air Corps of the Army. A year later he was a fledgling Army pilot, switched to commercial flying in 1923. Ernie Smith has two important "firsts" to his flying credit. Early in his career he flew the first Forest Patrol plane used in this country. Then in 1927, with Emory Bronte, he flew the first civilian airplane to cross from the mainland to the Hawaiian Islands; won, via special act of Congress, the Distinguished Flying Cross. Today, with more than 8,000 hours in the air, signifying over a million miles of flight, Brother Smith has moved through every branch of the spread-eagle Transcontinental and Western Air Lines to a post as Traffic Chief at San Francisco. When San Francisco's Golden Gate International Exposition prepared to open its turnstiles to some twenty millions of guests, Ernie Smith was elected "ambassador-at-large." Appropriately he started a proselyting tour over all TWA routes with an address before a joint banquet of Delta Delta and Gamma Delta at San Francisco's Stock Exchange Club.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA, established on November 25, 1898, at the University of Chicago, Chicago, Ill., by Ainsworth Whitney Clark, Charles Newman Crewdson, Newell Montague Fair, Marcus Peter Frutchey, Michael Francis Gallagher, James Madison Gwin, John Franklin Hagey, John Preston Mentzer, Ralph Leroy Peck, Rufus Maynard Reed, Rowland Thumm Rogers and Arthur Whipple Smith.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA was founded* on November 25, 1898, under conditions which were unusual in the founding of an alpha of Chi Psi. We are fortunate in having all the information concerning the establishment admirably preserved in an article by John P. Montrose, Φ'87, and we have but to read this story of the founding to learn how untiring were the efforts of the Chi Psi alumni in Chicago, once the opportunity appeared to create a local alpha. These men realized the advantages which the Fraternity would enjoy in having an alpha established in the city of Chicago and in a growing, progressive university such as the University of Chicago. To the original interest and later co-operation and supervision of Brother Montrose more than to anything else is due the credit for the successful inauguration of this alpha.

As late as March 26, 1898, there had been no proceedings, formal or informal, to petition the Fraternity for an alpha at Chicago. But on this date, the alumni of many alphas held an oldtime banquet, pervaded with the same enthusiastic Chi Psi spirit which these men had had in college. On this same day, James Gwin, a student in the University of Chicago, and a member of the Q. V. Club, approached Brother Montrose and broached to him the subject of petitioning Chi Psi. This was certainly a most opportune time to broach the subject to the Chicago alumni. They were to have their Chi Psi banquet, but there were no young Chi Psis to bring back most forcefully the old Chi Psi college life. James Gwin did not meet the rebuff that he might have expected at first, since he knew that the policy of the Fraternity was conservative and he could not expect favorable action immediately. All the men seemed enthusiastic about the proposal, not because it was a new idea, but because they had often talked of Chicago as a fertile field and had hoped some time to find the right men to make an alpha possible.

There were subsequent meetings with the men of the Q. V., and the enthusiasm of the Chicago Chi Psis grew with these meetings until a climax was reached at a dinner on April 11 at which Q. V. entertained V. F. Mashek Ψ'89, J. C. McMynn, Ψ'91, and J. P. Montrose, Φ'87. The result of this dinner was a telegram from these alumni to the convention then in session, asking the convention to take informal action, which it did. Following this action, the Chicago Chi Psi Alumni Association, the father of Alpha Epsilon Delta, appointed committees and organized for furthering the project. On May 14 a meeting of the association approved the petition of Q. V. and appointed a committee empowered to do everything possible to bring about the desired result. Recommendation of the petition was sent to the Executive Council and immediate action urged. Henry B. Adriance, Θ'87, took the task in hand, and worked with untiring zeal and interest, and in October the alphas were asked to vote upon the proposition. All of the alphas voted during that same month and by November 1, the new alpha of Chi Psi was assured.

*"The reason the original petition to Chi Psi was not made by the entire membership of Q. V. was that the club had not yet taken favorable action on the question of petitioning Chi Psi when the Fraternity convention met in the spring of 1898. Those twelve shown above as the founders, feeling the importance of prompt action, drafted and sent in a petition."

On November 25, 1898, under the direction of Alpha Epsilon, the new alpha was formally installed, with the initiation of John Preston Mentzer, Marcus Peter Frutchey, Arthur Whipple Smith, John Franklin Hagey, Ralph Leroy Peck, James Madison Gwin, Rufus Maynard Reed, Michael Francis Gallagher, Newell Montague Fair, Rowland Thumm Rogers, Ainsworth Whitney Clark, Edwin George Allen and Harry Williams Belfield. (Other members of the Q. V. were initiated later.) It was the night after Thanksgiving Day, on which three college football games were played in Chicago. The hotels were full of an ideal place. Including the initiates, nearly one hundred were present during the evening. Fourteen alphas were represented.

From the standpoint of general Fraternity strength, the founding of Epsilon Delta was an important step. In the words of Brother Montrose:

"The Chicago Chi Psi Alumni Association has felt the lack of an alpha within its reach. It has desired to assist the alphas which are in colleges drawing men from Chicago, and has lacked means to do so except in isolated cases. It has felt the lack of a steady supply of younger blood which an alpha here would give. It has noticed that at the present no alpha has a strong influence on the boys in any of Chicago's large preparatory schools or in any section of the city. It has realized and has been assured by Alphas Epsilon, Nu and Iota that our weakness in Chicago was a serious menace to our strength in the neighboring states. One of Iota's brothers expressed the opinion that if we did not now enter the University of Chicago, it would not be long before we should be compelled to do so. The reflex action of alphas and neighboring alumni associations has become a great element of strength in recent years. The relations between Alphas Nu and Iota and the alumni associations should be repeated in Chicago. But in Chicago, the emanating influence should be more general and widespread in the Fraternity. It is with these ideas that Alpha Epsilon Delta and the Chicago Alumni Association propose to work together, and we are confident that events in the near future will show great results."

men from the Universities of Michigan and Wisconsin. The games brought many brothers to the city. For Thursday, Friday and Saturday, parlor B at the Victoria hotel was Fraternity headquarters. Very appropriately Alpha Epsilon had charge of the initiation ceremonies of its namesake, and Alphas Nu and Iota assisted at the "borning." Oriental hall on the seventeenth floor of the Masonic Temple was chosen for the ceremonies and proved

And there was every prospect that the University of Chicago would grow and develop. It was properly endowed, and it was so situated as to draw students from all parts of the country. Its comprehensive plan of affiliated secondary schools was a force in the growth of the institution which is illustrated by the fact that the attendance increased from 750 in 1892 to 2,500 in 1897, just five years later. With such an increase to rely upon, Chi

Psi could well feel that an alpha at Chicago would never become dormant because of a scarcity of material. The growth has continued steadily since 1897, until at present date Chicago stands unquestionably among the leading institutions of the country both from the standpoint of scholastic resources and from the standpoint of physical assets.

Epsilon Delta has grown with the Alma Mater, not primarily in size, but first of all in influence and in adherence to principles. The delegations have been small and the policies of the alpha conservative. It is interesting to glance at the alpha roll and to note how uniformly the alpha has stayed within certain limits numerically. Seldom has the number exceeded twenty-five or gone below fifteen, the result being generally a group large enough to have force and not too large to preserve internal harmony and unity.

The quality of membership, moreover, has been consistently high. Even during the trying days of the war period Epsilon Delta kept her standards of personnel at the same high mark of quality to which the alpha and the Fraternity have always strived to measure.

Prior to 1915 the alpha might almost have been called nomadic. Up to that time, no permanent home had been provided and the lodge was always a rented building. It was not at all times possible under these conditions to secure desirable quarters, and no get-together of Epsilon Delta alumni is complete without reminiscences of the old days when "living at the lodge" was an adventure. Indeed, once in the earliest days the "lodge" was really the "lodgings," for it was an apartment or, as it was known in those days, a "flat." One of the strongest classes in the history of the alpha, that of 1902, recalls that time. Another of the strongest classes, that of 1914, was pledged at a time when the alpha for a college term, between rental seasons, was without any lodge at all, and entertained its rushees at a table in the university commons. Truly, as "Milt" Smith of sacred memory said, "The best Chi Psis have been developed in times of adversity."

The subject of securing a permanent lodge was constantly in the minds of the men, and in 1912 the first steps were undertaken. From then until the fall of 1915, plans progressed steadily. Howell W. Murray, '14, was the leader among the actives in this work, and to his untiring efforts was largely due the purchase of the present lodge at 5735 University Avenue, directly across from the campus. The fall of 1915 found the brothers in this new home, and entering upon a new era of progress and influence. The next two years brought the alpha close to the goal of well-rounded attainment. Then came our entrance into the war and a period of hardship. All fraternities suffered from the war, and Epsilon Delta of Chi Psi was no exception.

In 1917-18, Alpha Epsilon Delta did its full part. From among her comparatively small body of alumni and from her actives, the best available records show that 74 men entered the service.

The name of Walter Wood Goddard, Jr., '13, beloved by his contemporaries and admired by the younger generation of Epsilon Delta men, bears a gold star.

The lodge itself during the war was converted into a temporary barracks for the S.A.T.C. That meant that the normal routine of fraternity life was seriously upset. The alpha, which had progressed so markedly since moving into its own home, received a set-back. But, as was to be expected in a group of men bound together by true fraternal loyalty, the revival of normal activity and renewal of progress came quickly after the close of the war. A new group of men, many of them tried and trained in the service, took hold of Epsilon Delta affairs. The going was hard for a few years. The group was comparatively small and finances were a serious problem. But by 1922, the alpha once more was in the clear and had taken its former place of leadership on the Chicago campus. In the succeeding six to eight years the alpha probably experienced the period of its greatest strength and activity to date. Its members consistently contributed their share to the social and extra-curricular activities of the campus. They attained distinction in athletics, in literary endeavor on campus publications, in dramatic circles, and in membership in honor societies and student government bodies. Members of this alpha for a number of years held positions of importance in religious organizations on the campus. Scholastically, the alpha's record had been one of ups and downs, as is characteristic of fraternity groups, but on the whole its record had been considerably above the general average of all fraternity chapters at the University of Chicago. For the first term of 1928-29, Chi Psi was second of the fraternities at Chicago in scholarship.

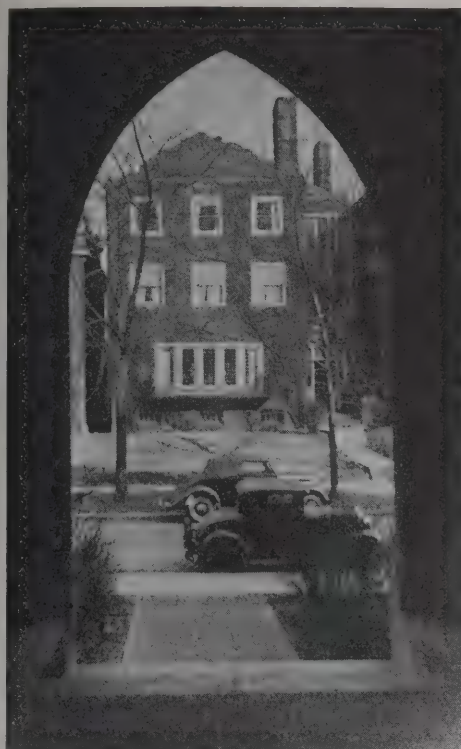

So closed the decade of the twenties. Within the alpha the last few years of that period witnessed steady improvement. There were occasional times of slightly lower standards but they were brief. On the whole, the levels of personnel, of financial stability and of internal activity were high. The alpha attained numerical

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO, CHICAGO, ILL. (View of Hutchinson Hall and Mitchell Tower.) Founded in 1890. Pioneering into uncharted, untraveled fields of education, the University of Chicago is principally a place for students desirous of learning more than just a trade. Through the four "survey" courses the university offers an extended glance into all that is known of the history, culture, and sciences of man. These lecture courses, required of all the students, serve not only to help the undecided person choose his vocation, but also to give everyone a background in culture and the ways of the world and universe. Class attendance at the university is compulsory only to the extent that it is easier to get the material by attending class. The examinations at the end of the school year are the only source of credit. Classroom quizzes and quarterly exams are only tabs on the student's progress, for his sole use. At Chicago the student is treated as a mature individual, capable of planning his own time. Plenty of help and guidance is available, of course. Second only to Harvard in the academic rating of its faculty, Chicago is noted throughout the world for the consistent brilliancy of its instructors. Especially is this true in the physical sciences—the department in which Michelson, Millikan, Compton and others have made names for themselves with their advanced research. A young school, only fifty years old, Chicago lacks the age-encrusted traditions of the eastern schools; but already there is recognized a tradition of the highest scholastic ideals. The campus is a compact, well planned unit, in beautiful old and new style Gothic, covering about six square blocks along the Midway, and about ten miles from the heart of the city of Chicago.—ALFRED PFANSTIEHL, ED'40.

strength of twenty-eight, the largest in its history. The alumni, who gave Epsilon Delta one of the top positions among all the alphas in percentage of contributors to the Endowment Fund of the general Fraternity, financed for their own alpha a $10,000 addition to the lodge. Subsequently their contributions substantially reduced the mortgage on the lodge.

Then came the decade of the thirties, bringing through those years profound changes to the undergraduate college of the University of Chicago.

On July 1, 1929, Robert Maynard Hutchins resigned as dean of the Yale law school to become president of the University of Chicago. Subsequently he had developed and set into motion the "Chicago Plan," which is described as follows:

"Major features of the Chicago Plan, which was introduced in 1931, had been proposed by many educators for more than a decade. The University of Chicago was the first prominent institution to adopt them comprehensively. The Plan represents a reaction against the excesses of the elective system (which gave the student wide latitude in the choice of his courses). In the College (first two years) the student is expected to familiarize himself with the main ideas in the four principal fields of human knowledge. The core of the program consists of one-year general courses in: (1) the Humanities, (2) the Biological Sciences, (3) the Physical Sciences, and (4) the Social Sciences. He is taught how to write clearly and grammatically. He is also given opportunity to pursue studies in which he has a special interest. At the end of two years, when he has completed the work of the College, he is ready for advanced work toward a degree in one of the four Divisions or in a Professional School. The Chicago Plan is progressive in method because it gives the student complete freedom. He is not required to do anything. He goes to class or not, as he elects. Personal guidance by advisers is substituted for detailed regulations. Experience soon convinces him that class attendance is advisable, even if not compulsory. General examinations, which he takes only when he is ready, test his progress. Because the examination tests accomplishment, it may be taken whether or not the student has had formal courses in the field. If he wishes to take the examination on the basis of independent study, or on high-school preparation, he may do so. Most students spend two years in the College, before entering a Division, but it may take more or less time, depending upon intelligence, industry, and previous preparation."

The already high academic standing of the University of Chicago has been further elevated under this regime, so that by most scholarly criteria it now stands second only to Harvard. Yes, in the undergraduate college the "new plan" has wrought profound changes. More and more the institution appeals to the studious; in one year's entering class of 750, ten per cent had been first or second in a high school graduating class. After the disastrous 1939 season football was abolished. The traditional class system of American colleges is shattered; a student may be a "freshman" this year and a "senior" next.

But more serious to the fraternities than any of the foregoing changes is the psychological reaction whereby emphasis on thinking for one's self has been translated into independence of action also in the social sphere, so that the necessary close cohesion of fraternity groups is and will be difficult to maintain until reaction sets in.

On Alpha Epsilon Delta of Chi Psi the impact of these changes was felt somewhat in the first half of the thirties, increasingly in the last five years. So far, we seem less successfully to have adapted ourselves to them than several of the chapters with which we have for years competed. But Chi Psi is a sturdy growth and its roots are deep in the Midway. As this is written, needed leadership seems to be emerging in the active alpha, and as for alumni potentiality it need only be said that at the fortieth annual "founders' night" dinner 64 alumni were present, 51 sent telegrams or letters to be read and 44 others returned cards—a total of 154 responding to the roll-call of 292 with known addresses!

BANQUET OF ALPHA ZETA DELTA, at Champaign, Ill., on June 1, 1940. This served as the initiatory banquet of the Chi Beta group. C. Love Durham, T'91, on this occasion received the Distinguished Service Award of the Chi Psi Fraternity. In attendance were 160 Chi Psis.

ALPHA ZETA DELTA, established on May 25, 1912, at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, Ill., by Frederic Hector Ahlgrim, Edward Dewalt Allen, Emil Joseph Anderle, Frank Boyd Baldwin, Franklin William Bauer, Charles Henry Belting, Paul Everett Belting, Dan Leavitt Clarke, David Roland Clarke, Mark Ament Cooper, Arthur Owen Dady, Clayton Brooke Faber, Harry Catlin Fulks, William Frederick Gasman, Orlando Merrill Gouchnaur, Donald Karel Groves, Wayne Floyd Harshman, Klaus Edward Hellstrom, Stanley Hill, Atherton Wells Hobler, Henry Fillmore Hyde, Homer Neal Kelly, George Benjamin Koch, John Franklin Kraeger, Ralph Dunning Longley, Leigh Willard Lucas, Robert Arnold Lutz, Sidney Griswold Martin, Willard Reynolds Matheny, Charles Edward McCool, Thompson Arlene Merrill, Ralph Uline Nichols, John Elbert Nolte, Wesley Kaylor Norris, Paul Morris Ostrom, Ralph Grover Perry, Ralph Alfred Pillinger, Arthur Comstock Pratt, David Chandler Prince, Edwin Groves Ryan, Frederic William Reuling, George Henry Schmelzle, Dwight Leod Smith, Benjamin H. Stubblefield, Ralph Emerson Swearingen, Delbert Mayo Tilson, Forest Clyde Van Hook, Daniel Ernst Voss and Lawrence Martin Wenter. Thomas Pim Goodbody, Θ'99, Temple Williams, Θ'10, and Robert Osgood Brown, EA'11.

ALPHA ZETA DELTA was founded May 25, 1912, from a petitioning body known as the Tau Lambda Fraternity which had, in turn, been preceded by the Lambs Club, originated by H. A. Bestor. That this organization eventually became Alpha Zeta Delta was not an afterthought, for Bestor, knowing something of Chi Psi ideals from Chi Psi friends, had Chi Psi as a goal from the beginning, and all throughout the evolution of the group, this goal remained fixed.

The Lambs Club, founded in 1906, was short lived. By the close of the year, June 1907, a small group headed by Bestor and A. O. Dady had decided that the club arrangements were neither satisfactory nor the membership wholly congenial. It was determined to abandon the club and form a local fraternity.

So Tau Lambda came into being. Bestor was again the guiding spirit and the members of the new organization, profiting by previous experience, built up their personnel slowly and carefully. They were surprisingly fortunate in their choice of men. Through scholastic and athletic prominence the Tau Lambda group came to be considered one of the leading university fraternities within the short space of three years. Many of the men, notably K. E. Hellstrom, E. G. Ryan and Dwight L. Smith, continued as exceedingly active directors of the Fraternity for the next fifteen years.

In 1909 the members of Tau Lambda felt their standing sufficiently high to petition for a charter of Chi Psi. Their petition was refused by the 68th Convention at Milwaukee. Their petition failed the next year and the next. These failures merely stimulated the local men to build a fraternity which would conform in every way to Chi Psi standards and whose petition could not be ignored.

The organization which petitioned the 71st Convention at Boston was one of the acknowledged leaders at the University of Illinois. It was represented in all branches of college activities by its twenty-seven undergraduates. It topped the list in scholarship. It was represented outside of college by forty-two active and interested alumni. It owned complete furnishings for a lodge and owned one of the choicest building sites in the university community. It owed money to no one.

Persistence was rewarded. Success was due in large degree to the cooperation of the Epsilon Delta actives, particularly H. W. Murray and E. R. Reichmann, and to the untiring efforts of the Chicago Alumni Association officers, C. H. Williams, A. E. Walker, H. H. Merrill and Temple Williams. On May 25, 1912, twenty-eight active men and twenty-two alumni of Tau Lambda terminated her existence and were initiated into Chi Psi and installed as Alpha Zeta Delta. The ceremonies, under the direction of Alpha Epsilon Delta and the Chicago Alumni Association, were held in the University Club of Chicago. The initiation and the Chi Psi banquet which followed will always be one of the most memorable occasions in the lives of those present.

At the banquet the fifty neophytes re-first rushing season was a complete success. Brothers from other alphas gave excellent cooperation in the securing of ten highly desirable men. Hardly a branch of university activity was without a representative of Zeta Delta. The Fraternity was successful financially and the scholastic standing was second in a list of thirty fraternities, much above the general student average.

During the next several years the alpha forged steadily along. A new and even more desirable building site was obtained—that facing Washington Park and now occupied by the lodge. The Fraternity moved to living quarters across the street from the new site and commenced to plan for the erection of a suitable permanent home. All possible funds and donations were diverted to the steadily growing "building fund."

Having attained the long sought for

ceived a deluge of greetings from all parts of the United States. A $500 gift from Brother Elbridge T. Gerry, Z'57, toward the establishment of a Zeta Delta lodge and the gift by Brother Montrose, Φ'87, of a handsome lodge-room Bible, were announced.

With the close of the college year, the members of the new alpha plunged into the work of organizing for the coming fall. A banner year followed, 1912-1913. The goal of a charter in Chi Psi and following the peak years of 1911-1912-1913, there came a slight slump in college activities and in scholarship. This general tendency toward peaceful enjoyment of the honors won was short lived, however. An active campaign was carried forward during 1915 and 1916 which would have resulted in the building of a new lodge in the fall and winter of 1917-1918 but for entrance into the World War. In fact, final contractors' bids were under consideration when the declaration of war came.

With the call to arms, Zeta Delta became almost dormant. The lodge was rented to the university as an S.A.T.C. dormitory. Almost the entire body of Zeta Delta actives and alumni marched off to war. Zeta Delta had the unfortunate honor of losing the first University of Illinois alumnus killed in France, Brother Gouchnaur, one of the first medical officers at the front. Brother Alan Ash of the LaFayette Flying Corps lost his life in aerial combat. He fell valiantly battling two German planes.

Brother Schreiner died of wounds received while personally directing his men in the establishment of telephone communications at the front. Brother Chapin, one of the first squadron of naval aviators to go across, was killed off the coast of England. Brother Robert Greene succumbed to the 'flu while in service.

Five lives from an organization as young as that of Zeta Delta was indeed a heavy toll. It is said to be the largest number lost by any fraternity at Illinois—and many of the fraternities had more than twice as many members. With almost the total membership in the service there were many wounded, some permanently injured. Brother Frank Hays enjoys the distinction of being the only Flying Ace produced by the University of Illinois. He wears the D.S.C. Zeta Delta is rightfully proud of her war record.

During the five years following the war, Zeta Delta reached a new peak of prosperity. Not a few war veterans, young in years but rich in experience among and with men, returned to guide the alpha. Likewise, the new men taken in were older.

By the year 1920 there were fifty-six fraternities at Illinois. In that year Zeta Delta had three of the seventeen members of the junior honor society. In 1921 Zeta Delta was awarded the Sachem Trophy, emblematic of scholastic leadership, offered that year for the first time. During the years 1920-1921-1922-1923 Zeta Delta was again represented in every campus activity and on all the athletic teams and won basketball, bowling, track and literary trophies in competition with over fifty other organizations. The leaders of many campus organizations and activities lived in the lodge. A member of Zeta Delta (Robert C. Preble) inaugurated the first all-university "Dad's Day"—the annual homecoming week-end for fathers of university students. This holiday is now celebrated by many of our larger universities. Seventeen members took part in the drive which resulted in building Illinois' great Memorial Stadium.

The crowning glory of the period was the building of the new lodge in 1921. With construction costs nearly doubled, the building committee pushed ahead and constructed a model fraternity home at a cost of $61,000, following very closely the financing and construction plans abandoned with the outbreak of war.

The lodge is built around an open court facing on Washington Park, the structure being ninety feet long on a ground frontage of 150 feet. There is also an entrance on Second Street and a long porch facing Chalmers Street. The lodge is constructed of brick with stone trimming, three stories high, designed to accommodate twenty-eight men although there is ample space for thirty-three. Fraternity house builders from various parts of the country have been frequent visitors at the lodge because of the reputation of the structure as a model fraternity home.

Alpha Zeta Delta at the University of Illinois has been in excellent financial condition at all times. Payments on the building loan and on bond interest have all been met promptly. The original plans to spend $75,000 for land, building and furnishings have been carried out. The indebtedness is being paid off satisfactorily each year.

After passing the second peak period culminating with the erection of the new lodge, the members of Zeta Delta again sat back, surveyed their possessions, and felt highly gratified with their status in the world. Finances remained on a sound basis, but activities were neglected and scholarship suffered.

From '29 to '34 the alpha was again on the up-grade and the standard set by Chi

Psi was well maintained. The uniformly high calibre of the actives was an excellent tribute to proper co-operation in rushing and financing rendered by the loyal alumni group.

At the annual Fraternity convention at Swampscott, Mass., in September 1932, Zeta Delta was awarded the Thayer Trophy, Chi Psi's highest alpha honor. An imposing list of campus honors was also achieved and culminated in the appointment of Elliott Durand, '33, as student colonel of the university R.O.T.C.—the largest unit in the country.

Beginning in 1935 the alpha started on a very trying period due to several causes within the alpha and the university. One of these factors, and probably the important one, was the lack of proper geographical distribution in membership. From 1930 on almost all men pledged were from Chicago and its suburbs. The Fraternity lost its contacts with material from smaller towns in Illinois, which had since its inception proved a very substantial part of the alpha's strength.

The remarkable growth of the university following the war brought the enrollment up to about 15,000 and by 1932 the fraternities numbered close to one hundred. Competition in rushing under these conditions became acute and Zeta Delta suffered with the rest. A well defined tendency on the part of most of the older fraternities to become self-sufficient did not tend to keep

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS, CHAMPAIGN-URBANA, ILL. (The famous elm-lined Broadwalk, trod daily by 10,000 students.) Founded in 1867. A vast laboratory of education and research, the University of Illinois in the last 70 years has risen from the most inauspicious of beginnings to become one of the world's great institutions of learning, culture, and research. Discoveries made by the university faculty men save the citizens of Illinois, of the United States, and of the world millions of dollars annually. The work and influence of the 140,000 Illinois alumni have gained the university recognition in every country on the face of the earth. Within the memory of graduates still active enough to hobble around the campus at "Homecoming" the university was a provincial industrial school on a bit of prairie. Then called the Illinois Industrial University, the school opened in 1868 with an enrollment of 50 students, and with three teachers. Today the University of Illinois has 13,382 students and 1,200 teachers. It is known everywhere for discoveries that have made buildings safer to live in, that have cured diseases believed to be incurable, that have increased the productivity of farm lands, and that have in hundreds of other ways contributed to the welfare of humanity. One single discovery made at the university—the principle of crop rotation—each year saves Illinois farmers far more than the cost of operating the university. Bulletins on research of faculty men daily affect the lives of every farmer, manufacturer, and businessman in the state. Its 13,382 students—the most on any single campus in the country—live in harmony at the university, under a minimum of restriction, and not more than a dozen are expelled annually for infraction of rules.—WM. A. DENNIS, ZA'40.

the standards up where they belonged. The university also embarked upon a limited dormitory plan which, while it probably will not accommodate a large percentage of the men students, will surely set a standard of living conditions at a price which fraternities will need to meet.

During this five year interval, finances were well maintained and it was found both desirable and necessary to buy the vacant lot adjoining the lodge on the north, between our house and Delta Kappa Epsilon, at a price of $2,500. During this period it was also necessary to make extensive changes in the second floor toilet and bath facilities and this was done. A refinancing program was undertaken and a new mortgage on the property including three lots and the building was written for $18,000. The original mortgage in 1921 had been $48,500.

An active alumni group has been maintained in Chicago, but for the past five years the work has been done by two men, Tom Boodell, '28, and Berlyn Pierce, '29, and it is due almost entirely to their efforts that the alpha has maintained even a fair record. The active membership living in the lodge varied from forty-two men in 1936 to a low of twenty-three men in the fall of 1939. Although scholarship was kept in hand and was rewarded by the university in granting the Sachem Trophy to the alpha for the second time, still the number of men and their campus activities steadily declined.

In the year 1940 we find on the campus only fifty-nine fraternities, an astounding mortality in eight years. Zeta Delta has gone along through these years, but it has not gone too well.

In January, 1940, the board of governors of the Chi Beta Educational Association approached Alpha Zeta Delta on the subject of affiliation. It will be recalled that Tau Lambda was organized in 1907. In 1906 Chi Beta was founded at Illinois and for thirty-four years had enjoyed an enviable position as the outstanding local group on the campus. At the end of this period it was the only local at Illinois and had always ranked with the best of the national fraternities. Chi Beta had never before sought a national affiliation although it had been approached several times by prominent national fraternities. The alumni roll of Chi Beta numbered 329 and the active chapter numbered twenty-two men.

Unanimous approval was indicated by both active chapters and the Chi Beta and Chi Psi alumni groups approved the union. The Executive Council of Chi Psi gave unanimous approval to the step and the ceremonies were held at Champaign June 1, 1940.

Sixty-three alumni and twenty-two actives of Chi Beta were formally initiated into Chi Psi at Champaign on that date. They included four father-and-son groups and numbered two men from the class of '07, one from '08, one from '09, and on through to '39. Among the prominent alumni initiated were Stanley P. Farwell, '07, president of Business Research Corp., Ray C. McLarty, '12, manager of sales, Curtis Publishing Co., and Wendell S. Wilson, director of athletics, University of Illinois. Another alumni initiation of twenty-two was conducted at "Homecoming" on October 26, 1940.

Of the twenty-two actives of Chi Beta initiated seventeen were not from Chicago and this should be of invaluable assistance in future rushing efforts. It will provide an opportunity for the Fraternity to regain the geographical distribution which it lost many years ago.

The ceremonies at Champaign were conducted by Howell W. Murray, EA'14, who acted as toastmaster at the initiation banquet, and the event recalled to his memory the ceremonies in which he was also active when Tau Lambda members were initiated into Chi Psi twenty-eight years before.

K. E. HELLSTROM, ZΔ'08

The principal speaker was C. Love Durham, Y'91, and the gathering, which included sixty-five Chi Psi alumni beside the actives and all of the new initiates, will long remember his forceful address. At this banquet Brother Durham was awarded the Chi Psi Fraternity Distinguished Service Award—this being the fourth award of that honor. This ceremony gave to the meeting a fraternal atmosphere which none present will soon forget.

Alpha Zeta Delta is now firmly established at Illinois, with active and alumni groups second to none. It is generally felt that there will be a further reduction in the number of fraternities on the campus, probably to forty or even thirty-five. If this mortality occurs, it should not weaken Zeta Delta, but through making available more good material, it should tend to strengthen the alpha.

ALPHA PSI DELTA, established on December 18, 1920, at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo., by Edward Francis Bird, Charles Dunham Bromley, Ernest Ray Campbell, George Holt Card, Stewart Cosgriff, John William Dowd, Leonard Eady Dowd, John Carlton Fischer, Leonard Freeman, Jr., Dudley Watson Hart, Albert Myer Knapp, Thomas Walker Lipscomb, Joseph Hugh McClure, Samuel McMurtrie, Walter Givens Pennington, John Clyde Pritchard, Wallace Walter Toelle, George Arnold Unfug, Charles Delos Waggoner, Jr., and Charles Edward Walker. Milton Smith, Ψ'87, and Asa Thomas Jones, Θ'18.

ALPHA PSI DELTA owes its existence to the efforts of alumni of Alphas Psi, Chi, Phi, Theta, Epsilon and Rho banded together as the Colorado Chi Psi Alumni Association, under zealous and enthusiastic leadership of Milton Smith, Ψ'87.

For some years prior to 1920 the alumni in Denver and neighboring cities of Colorado had maintained an association of which Edwin M. Bosworth, Ψ'03, served as secretary. He is credited with having kept the light burning through many years. During this time meetings were seldom held. Due to the agitation of J. Wallace Coxhead, X'13, eighteen of the brothers gathered together for a first luncheon in the summer of 1919 and concluded to continue such luncheons each Monday thereafter at the University Club. The luncheons were well attended and resulted in a revival of interest in the affairs of the Fraternity generally.

Milton Smith, Ψ'87, president, represented the association as its delegate at the convention held in Chicago June 24-26, 1920. Keen interest in conservative expansion was displayed by the delegates, and Brother Smith promised to make a thorough investigation of the possibility of an extension into the University of Colorado, and to report the results of such investigation to the Executive Council. Returning to Denver, a committee of investigation was appointed, which collaborated with Professors John S. McLucas, B'93, and Erskine R. Myer, Φ'13, of the University of Colorado, and Gilbert A. Callahan, Φ'85, a resident of Boulder. The report was favorable, and the members of the association determined, upon the opening of school in September, to form a group of undergraduates for the purpose of petitioning Chi Psi for an alpha. They kept in close touch with the Executive Council, and a committee consisting of Milton Smith Ψ'87, Guilford Jones, Θ'11, and Harold F. Johnson, X'18, made a trip to Chicago for the purpose of conferring with the Council.

In the summer of 1920 a rushing committee, consisting of Milton Smith, Edwin Bosworth, Guilford Jones and Harold F. Johnson, labored prodigiously to obtain information on all prospective students eligible to become members of the proposed organization. Hundreds of letters were written and scores of telegrams and telephone calls sent out. After a general weeding out process, a nucleus of thirty-five or forty men was selected. Just prior to the opening of college in September, a smoker and supper was held at the Cactus Club in Denver, at which the most desirable prospective students from Denver were entertained.

On the day the university opened for the 1920-21 session, Milton Smith, Ψ'87, Edwin M. Bosworth, Ψ'03, Douglas B. Crane, E'05, J. Wallace Coxhead, X'13, Guilford Jones, Θ'11, Asa T. Jones, Jr., Θ'18, Harold F. Johnson, X'18, Brooks E. Johnson, X'17, Edward Upham, X'84, William L. Dayton, P'89, Cregar B. Quaintance, X'14, and Erskine R. Myer, Φ'13, left their respective occupations and businesses and moved to Boulder for the activities of rush week.

Rush week at the University of Colorado has always been a period of feverish activity; but prior to the advent of Chi Psi it was an activity in which the alumni of the respective groups took no part. The appearance on the scene of a group of prominent Denver business and professional men rushing for a contemplated new chapter of a well-known old Eastern fraternity created a furor. Youth was naturally under a severe handicap in competing with a group of experienced and enthusiastic alumni. The end of the rushing period found twenty splendid men pledged to a tentative organization known as the Gargoyle Club. It was understood

Upon the formation of the Gargoyle Club, a formal petition to the Chi Psi Fraternity was prepared and Brooks E. Johnson, X'17, was sent by the association to visit each of the alphas and to acquaint them with first hand information on the University of Colorado and the petitioning group in particular. On Friday, December 10, 1920, word was received in Denver that the petition had been favorably acted upon by the alphas, and that plans for initiation and installation could go forward. On Friday, December 17, seventeen members of the alumni association motored to Boulder and conducted the preliminaries to the initiation proper. On the following day the twenty members of the Gargoyle Club were initiated into the Fraternity at the home of Milton Smith in Denver. The following alumni were in attendance: Frank A. Wadleigh, E'81, Edward D. Upham, X'84, A. V. Tabor, Φ'84, Gilbert A. Callahan, Φ'85, Newcomb Cleveland, Φ'86, Dr. P. O. Hanford, Θ'94, Milton Smith, Ψ'87, W. L. Dayton, P'89, C. M. Kassler, Ψ'93, Edwin M. Bosworth, Ψ'03, Douglas B. Crane, E'05, Guilford Jones, Θ'11, J. Wallace Coxhead, X'13, Erskine R. Myer, Φ'13, Cregar B. Quaintance, X'14, William H. Dayton, Φ'17, Brooks E. Johnson, by all that the organization was formed for the avowed purpose of petitioning Chi Psi for an alpha. The twenty men began to function immediately as an organization and took up quarters in a desirable residence which had been rented by the alumni for that purpose. The rental of $1,500 was paid in advance, and was, incidentally, subscribed by the alumni in less than fifteen minutes. In fact, $1,800 was raised.

X'17, Harold F. Johnson, X'18, Asa T. Jones, Jr., Θ'18. The Fraternity Visitor, W. B. Champlin, ΔΔ'18, was also present. A banquet followed the initiation, at which Erskine R. Myer, Φ'13, and Newcomb Cleveland, Φ'86, spoke on behalf of the alumni. Brother Champlin, the Visitor, spoke on behalf of the Executive Council, and Brother E. R. Campbell, ΨΔ'22, responded for the new alpha.

On the opening of college in January,

EDWARD D. UPHAM, X'84, Denver attorney, was one of the twelve alumni who in 1920 with Milton Smith, Ψ'87, as leader took active part in assembling the Gargoyle Club at the University of Colorado, afterwards to be chartered as Alpha Psi Delta. He helped organize and became a charter director of the Alpha Psi Delta Corporation, owner of the lodge property.

1921, the group entered upon its existence at the university as an alpha of the Chi Psi Fraternity, with Brother Campbell as the first No. 1.

In March, 1921, a building site, consisting of eight lots, was purchased by Brother Milton Smith for $10,300. This brother individually advanced the money for this purpose, with the understanding that second mortgage bonds of the building corporation then in process of formation would be issued to him in repayment. Bonds in this amount were later issued to this brother, but he cancelled them a short time after their issuance, so that, for all practical purposes, it may be considered that he made an outright gift of the building site at this time.

The University of Colorado, like many colleges, is located on a hill. University Avenue is a broad, beautiful street that leads from the business section of Boulder up a gradual incline to the site of the university. The university lies on the left side of the avenue as one ascends the hill. A residential community lies on the right-hand side of the avenue. At the crest of the hill the avenue divides into two streets which make an angle of about sixty degrees. The Chi Psi Lodge is located at the head of the avenue and in the intersection of these two branching streets, and thus commands a view of the university, as well as a view of University Avenue through its entire length. Many other building sites were considered, but Brother Smith was insistent that this, the outstanding one, be purchased.

In the summer of 1921 the formation of the Alpha Psi Delta Corporation of Chi Psi was completed and the newly acquired building site transferred to it. A first mortgage bond issue of $32,500 was made and sold to a bank. An issue of second mortgage bonds in an equal amount was made and sold to members of the alumni association and to members of the newly created alpha. A contract for a lodge was let and the lodge was completed in December, 1921, at a cost of approximately $60,000. Furnishings at the cost of approximately $5,000 were installed, and the alpha occupied its new home at the opening of the spring term in January, 1922.

Through the generosity of John W. Anderson, E'90, president of the Fraternity, and of Milton Smith, Ψ'87, the lodge room was handsomely furnished at a cost of some $3,000. From time to time valuable additions have since been made to the furnishings.

On the 13th day of November, 1926, there was held at the lodge in Boulder a banquet in honor of Milton Smith, Ψ'87. As a token of their appreciation for what he had done for them, the members of Alpha Psi Delta presented to the lodge an oil portrait of Brother Smith. The portrait is a magnificent piece of work, and hangs today as a fitting and everlasting memorial to Brother Smith.

On March 3, 1929, the alpha suffered a sad loss in the death of Brother Milton Smith. A bare statement of the principal incidents of the creation of the alpha indicates in some degree the part that this brother played in the formation and subsequent growth of the alpha. The alpha probably would not have been founded at all without the efforts and enthusiasm of this brother.

In his will Brother Smith bequeathed to the corporation $10,000 of its bonds and in addition cancelled certain other indebtedness. This made possible the construction, during the summer of 1931, of a handsome addition on the south end of the lodge, extending it by one room in length on all three floors, and bringing the entire structure into symmetrical balance.

A substantial gift from Mrs. Caroline Graham Coe at this time financed the construction and furnishing of an attractive library on the main floor, dedicated to the memory of her son, Dick Slaughter of the class of '25.

The lodge has been kept in excellent physical condition throughout its existence, with redecorating, repairing, and refurnishing when needed. In this, as in other things, the alpha is grateful for the repeated participation of the Chi Psi Mothers Club.

The Sinking Fund has operated continuously as originally set up for the systematic reduction of the indebtedness on the lodge each year. That indebtedness has been refinanced several times through the years, each time under some favorable conditions. The rent paid by the alpha to the corporation has been substantially reduced. (The corporation owns and maintains the property; its officers and directors are Chi Psi alumni.)

Through strict insistence on business methods in the operation of the lodge, both from the Central Office organization and from alumni and active officers, Chi Psi at Colorado finds itself in a favorable

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO, BOULDER, COLO. ("Varsity Lake," with Macky Auditorium in the background.) Founded in 1876. The University of Colorado, located at Boulder, can offer to any student the field of study, the line of sport, and the type of activity that any modern school of learning has today. The university includes the colleges of arts and sciences, engineering, and education; the departments of home economics, fine arts, physical education, and pharmacy; and the schools of medicine, nursing, law, and business. The location of the university offers many advantages for the naturalist and sportsman. Classes in geology and biology are at a great advantage, for in five-minutes' ride from Boulder one is in the mountains. Hunting, both for duck and for deer, is within a few miles of the city, and the best trout fishing in the state is found within a short distance. Winter sports are participated in by the students every week-end. Cars can be seen leaving the university for Berthoud Pass, which is well known as a skiing resort; the Arlberg Club, rated as the second best ski course in the United States; or Estes Park, located in the Rocky Mountain National Park, where skiing is found up into June.—FRED LATCHAM, JR., ΨΔ'40.

position to meet the difficult conditions of the present and possibly of the future.

Because of the unique circumstances surrounding its founding, Alpha Psi Delta sprang immediately into a position of leadership on the Colorado campus. With occasional and slight variations from the curve of progress, it has maintained and enhanced this position.

The University of Colorado is being recognized increasingly throughout this country, as well as in the mountain region, as an educational institution of the first rank. During the last eight years a much needed building program totaling nearly $4,000,000 has been carried out. This program has included new dormitories, an Engineering Building, additions to the Arts Building, Field House, and other structures, along with improved facilities for the medical school in Denver.

The most recent addition to the Colorado campus is a new, half-million dollar Library, the finest in this section.

We are proud of the participation of two Colorado Chi Psi alumni on the board of regents of the university. C. D. Bromley, '23, served a six-year term ending in 1935; E. R. Campbell, '22, is now serving his second consecutive term as a member of this board and is exceptionally active in the affairs of the university.

ALPHA ETA DELTA, established on January 1, 1921, at the University of Oregon, Eugene, Ore., by Norman Terrell Byrne, James Wilson Gaily, Homer Calvin Gant, Orvin Thomas Gant, Carl Eugene Houston, Edwin Palmer Hoyt, Guy Oran Koepp, Harold Newton Lee, Kay Armston Leep, Glen Stirling McGonegal, Fred Benjamin Michelson, Harold George Michelson, Virgil Flynn Oliver, George Fredrick Shirley and Ralph Louis Taylor. John Kosciusko Kollock, X'92, Eugene Joseph Berry, M'09, and Lewis Ankeny McArthur, ΔΔ'08.

AMONG those who entered the University of Oregon in the fall of 1919 was George F. Shirley, an ex-service man, who had previously had three years of college life. Shirley gathered around him a number of other men, including Ralph L. Taylor and Harold N. Lee, who were dissatisfied with the conditions in which they found themselves. On October 12, 1919, these men formed the S-Maralda Local Fraternity. They immediately leased a house and were fortunate in securing the assistance of the president of the university, P. L. Campbell, who was much interested in the activities of the group. President Campbell assisted these men in their finances and delegated members of the faculty to co-operate with the organization.

During the spring of the college year 1919-20 data was prepared for a petition to the Chi Psi Fraternity and a contact was made with members of Chi Psi residing in Portland and elsewhere in Oregon. The matter of extending into the University of Oregon was taken up at the 79th Annual Convention of the Chi Psi Fraternity held in Chicago in the summer of 1920 and informal approval was given to the project.

When college opened in the fall of 1920, a large portion of the members of S-Maralda were again enrolled as students and a number of freshmen were secured. At this time Captain James D. Basey, I'15, made a preliminary investigation for the Oregon Chi Psi Association. This was followed up by T. B. Brown, II'98, and Lewis A. McArthur, ΔΔ'08, who visited the university in October. The investigation satisfied Brothers Brown and McArthur that this was a promising field for Chi Psi extension. A report was submitted to the Oregon Chi Psi Association, and on October 14 the association informed the Executive Council that it had unanimously endorsed the extension into the University of Oregon.

It had already been announced by the Executive Council that every effort would be made to expedite the vote on the petition and the following days were anxious ones for members of the S-Maralda Local Fraternity and the Oregon Chi Psi Association. The votes began to be announced early in December and on the afternoon of December 14 Brother McArthur received a telegram from the Central Office announcing that the ballots stood clear. At the same time the vote was being taken on Alpha Eta Delta, the Executive Council was submitting a referendum on a petition from students of the University of Colorado, which was also acted upon favorably by the various alphas.

The S-Maralda Local Fraternity was notified immediately of a favorable vote and also the names of the sixteen men who had been selected to comprise the charter membership. Immediately preceding the voting period, the local fraternity was visited by W. B. Champlin, ΔΔ'18, Visitor of the Fraternity, who spent nearly a week at Eugene.

Before the Christmas holidays the fifteen members were notified to appear in Portland at noon January 1, 1921, to be prepared for initiation into the Fraternity.

The initiation ceremony was held in the old Masonic Temple at the corner of West Park and Yamhill Streets, Portland, and began at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The ceremony was conducted by J. K. Kollock, X'92, who acted as No. 1, and by Eugene J. Berry, M'09, and Lewis A. McArthur, ΔΔ'08, who alternated as No. 5. T. B. Brown, II'98 and Henry A. Kassebaum, ΓΔ'14, assisted with the neophytes and gave them the preliminary oaths.

The new members in order of initiation were: George F. Shirley, '21, Harold N. Lee, '21, Ralph L. Taylor, '22, Fred B. Michelson, '23, Harold G. Michelson, '23, Guy O. Koepp, '23, J. Wilson Gaily, '23, Glen S. McGonegal, '22, Edwin P. Hoyt, '22, Virgil F. Oliver, '23, Norman T. Byrne, '23, Homer C. Gant, '23, Orvin at the University Club on Sunday, January 2, 1921, to organize the alpha. In accordance with these directions the new Chi Psis gathered at the University Club the next day and in addition to the men from Eta Delta there were also present: Lewis A. McArthur, chairman of the organization committee of the Oregon Association, H. E. Sanford, BΔ'16, chairman of the rushing committee, and W. H. Gillespie, II'02, chairman of the finance committee, together with a number of other alumni committee members.

The day was spent in discussing matters in connection with the Fraternity and at the close of the meeting officers of the new alpha were elected with H. N. Lee as the first No. 1.

Although the alpha was handicapped at first because it was new to the university campus, it had a source of strength in an enthusiastic and powerful alumni group in Portland. Due to the prominence of the Portland alumni the alpha was fortunate in being able to proceed with cautious deliberation in the selection of those men who would serve Chi Psi best and has been able from its infancy to mold within its organization a loyal and devoted group.

In the early summer of 1925 an amalgamation of Chi Psi and Bachelordon was

LODGE OF ALPHA ETA DELTA

T. Gant, '23, Kay A. Leep, '22, and Carl E. Houston, '24.

The entire party then moved to the University Club where an excellent dinner was served, arrangements for which had been made by a committee headed by P. D. Ross, M'10. A check of the members showed that there were sixty Chi Psis in attendance at the various functions.

At the close of the banquet the newly elected brothers were instructed to appear urged by the actives of the alpha. Bachelordon was a strong local club that had been organized in 1919 by a group of ex-service men, and had obtained a very favorable rating on the Oregon campus, due to their activities in the affairs of the university. After considerable investigation by the Chi Psi alumni of Oregon the consolidation took place and on November 21, 1925, fifteen men from the Bachelordon Club were taken into the alpha in the regular manner. As a result of this consolidation the alpha moved into the Bachelordown house, a much more desirable home than the old premises had been, and located on the historic university mill race.

This consolidation not only improved the physical properties of the alpha but made it possible to perfect rushing connections in many new parts of the state. There is no doubt that immediately following and through the school year of 1926 Chi Psi attained considerable more prominence on the university campus, but it is also true that during this period a lack of freshman training and an unwillingness on the part of the alpha to co-operate with the alumni group were responsible for some very trying years to come in the development of the alpha.

By 1931, however, the alpha had taken a new lease on life as is evidenced by the following quotation from the Visitor's report for that year: "Alpha Eta Delta has made a record that its alumni can be proud of. It holds a strong position on the campus, is maintaining a very satisfactory scholarship record and the internal spirit is a pleasure to witness." Two years later, in 1933, the alpha was awarded the Thayer Trophy in recognition of its continued progress and of having maintained the highest standards in all departments.

With a lassitude that seems to be a custom for those who have attained sudden prosperity the alpha lapsed into a state of coma, and during the years of 1936 and 1937 there was no marked progress in its development. However, Eta Delta was no longer the struggling infant of a few years past. Experience even though limited and a determination and loyalty on the part of her members made it possible to regain her own self-respect and her rightful position among the fraternities at Oregon. Today Eta Delta has established herself on the Oregon campus as a leader and the hopes and aspirations of her founders have at last been realized.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, ORE. (New Library Building.) Founded in 1872. The University of Oregon is a conservative school of 3,000 students, located in Eugene, 120 miles south of Portland, at the head of the Willamette Valley. Yes, a conservative school—with all the advantages comparatively small numbers afford and, at the same time, many of the advantages of the larger university. Academically, Oregon ranks high, boasting some of the finest professional schools in the country. We have a school of architecture and allied arts, a school of journalism, schools of law, of music, of education, of business administration, a medical school in Portland, with pre-med training offered on the campus here, and a school of physical education. The casual visitor on the campus cannot help but be impressed by the fine expanses of green, carefully kept lawn, stretching in all directions, by the new buildings, chief of which are the $465,000 library and the $375,000 physical education plant, and, lastly, by the Oregon spirit itself. There is a friendly note on the campus, a feeling of personal interest in everyone, maintained by both students and faculty, furthered by such traditions as the "hello" walk, where everyone in passing greets everyone else regardless of previous acquaintance. The mill race is probably talked of more than any other single feature on the Oregon campus. It winds down through part of Eugene's residential district, just north of the campus. Six fraternities, including our own Chi Psi, and two of the sororities are located along the race, which provides an excellent background for fall and spring term parties and dances. And the race, of course, offers excellent swimming and a fine place in which to "dunk" unruly pledges or brothers. Yes, we have here at Oregon a great little school, offering lots of fine entertainment and real college life along with excellent professional training for students who want it and will apply themselves.—WENDELL BROOKS, HA'40.

SPENCER BUTTE—A FOOTNOTE TO CHI PSI HISTORY. Just south of Eugene and the University of Oregon stands Spencer Butte, a well-known landmark with an elevation of 2,065 feet. A favorite student hike is the trip to the top of the butte, from which point a fine view may be had in clear weather. Spencer Butte was named in July 1845, by Dr. Elijah White, a pioneer missionary to the Oregon country. It will interest members of the Fraternity to know that the butte was named for John C. Spencer, the father of Philip Spencer. Dr. White and a companion, Batteus Du Guerre, climbed the mountain during an exploration for an immigrant road, and the following passage is from his book ("Ten Years in Oregon," compiled by Miss A. J. Allen and published in 1848), describing their experiences on the summit: "They now took a delightful survey of the general features of the landscape before them. On one hand was the vast chain of the Cascade Mountains, Mt. Hood looming in solitary grandeur far above its fellows; on the other was the Umpqua Mountains, and a little farther on, the coast ridge. Between these lay the whole magnificent panorama of the Willamette Valley, with its ribbon streams, and carpet-like verdure. The day was fine, and such was the clearness of the atmosphere that the scene was very distinct, grand and imposing. In enthusiastic admiration of the noble site, the doctor named the elevation Mt. Spencer, in compliment to John C. Spencer, the then Secretary of War, and plucked some choice evergreens, intending to present them to the daughters of this gentleman; but the Pawnees despoiled him of the treasure."—LEWIS A. SOUTHERN COLLEGE CAMPUS SCENES: Left, University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss., home of Alpha Gamma of Chi Psi (1858-61, 1865-91); right, Wofford College, Spartanburg, S.C., home of Alpha Tau of Chi Psi (1869-1906).

ALPHA THETA DELTA, established on June 4, 1921, at the University of Washington, Seattle, Wash., by Robert Wells Dickson, Walter Emanuel Johnson, Nelson Lee Clark, Allen DeWitt Cover, Charles Eliot Calhoun, Ainsworth Blogg, Edward Allen Ross, Jr., Claud Eugene Kettells, Sydney Harvey Kromer, Lewis Lombard Simpson, Clayton Warren Weatherly, Deryl Livingston Motteler, Marshall Sumner Byers, Campbell Mungo McKenzie Middleton, Burton Elliott Palmer and Lucian Brashear Shields. Edward Marion Hay, Θ'15, Wilfrid Ryan Morgan, Θ'93, and William Carr Morrow, ΓΔ'01.

THE HISTORY of the University of Washington has been one of almost continual growth, rapid at times, at other times more slow. Founded during the territorial days of 1861 in present downtown Seattle, the expansion of the city itself forced a move to a more desirable location. The present campus is on what was then considered the very outskirts of the city. A more beautiful spot is hard to imagine. Lake Washington glistens to the east. At the foot of the mile long slope, from Fraternity Row on the north, lie Union Bay and the University Golf Club. Beyond the lake is the jagged Cascade Range while to the west lie the snow-capped Olympias. Like ever guarding sentinels arise far to the north Mt. Baker and to the south the magnificent Mt. Rainier.

From the feeble beginnings of a few scattered buildings, impetus was given to growth by the advent of a world's fair, the Alaska-Yukon Pacific Exposition of 1909. The fair was held on the unoccupied part of the present campus. Upon the conclusion of the fair, certain permanent buildings reverted to the university. From this source were received the present Meany and Bagley Halls.

A steady period of growth was then interrupted by the World War. Despite a large number of enlistments from the student body, the enrollment was maintained or perhaps even increased by the institution of the S.A.T.C., the Student Army Training Corps, in 1918. Military training, with students living in barracks hastily erected all over the campus, became a part of the college.

Signing of the Armistice obviated the necessity for such intense military training, so the S.A.T.C. was abandoned in 1919, but the R.O.T.C. was substituted and this institution is still a part of the university's required subjects, with both naval and military units.

Somewhat paralleling the growth of the university, fraternities entered the university with the appearance of Sigma Nu in 1896. Others followed suit in due time but they were of the so-called liberal group, the conservative fraternities being content to wait further proof of the substantial qualities they wanted to see before establishing chapters. The first of this type to enter the field was Delta Kappa Epsilon in 1911. This one alone represented the conservative fraternities until 1916 when Psi Upsilon saw fit to enter. The war here operated to stop practically all further fraternity growth.

It was with the entering class of 1919 that a situation arose that offered a chance for fraternities of all types that has never since been equalled. The war was over and not only was the student body augmented by an unusually large group of high school graduates but also the demobilization of the army let loose all those who had previously been students but had interrupted their studies to join the colors. The campus was flooded with men. The faculty was entirely too small and had to be increased substantially and at once. Classrooms were overcrowded and the old S.A.T.C. barracks were put to use. And, of course, among those returning were the fraternity men released from the army. As a result, fraternities were so crowded they could not absorb the men of fraternity caliber. There were more good men outside the fraternities than in them.

Sensing this situation, three men, Robert Dickson, Allen Cover and Frederick Sanborn, having returned from the service, investigated the fraternity situation and found that the very conservative and highly regarded Chi Psi Fraternity was not represented on the campus. These three had come from Portland, Ore., where Chi Psi had a very powerful alumni association. The Seattle association at the time was weak in numbers but certainly not original group was to bring one man. At the same time local Chi Psi alumni were approached and they agreed to have one of their members present.

This meeting was in reality the start of Chi Psi at Washington. Aided by R. C. Dillingham, Π'10, since deceased, it was definitely decided to form a local fraternity, lease a house and go ahead with an organization to petition Chi Psi for an alpha at the University of Washington.

All this was done in May and June of 1920. Summer vacation was on the group before they had hardly started. However, work was carried on during the summer, a house secured, furniture bought, organization plans worked out and with the advent of school in the fall of 1920, the new fraternity appeared on the campus under the name of Theta Gamma Pi.

The first concern of the new group was to sell themselves whole-heartedly to the Chi Psis in the vicinity, so local alumni were invited to the fraternity house. Apparently a favorable impression was created, for the alumni became frequent visitors during the next year, aiding materially in organizing and helping with the problems with which the new group were con-lacking in spirit. The alumni agreed to help, provided a representative group could be gathered. The three men selected as associates seven of their more intimate friends on the campus. An informal meeting of this group was arranged and the problems of organizing and starting a new fraternity were discussed. Enough spirit was shown so that a further step was taken, this being a formal meeting scheduled for June 11, 1920, at which time each of the fronted. Then the group entertained the president of the university, Dr. Henry Suzzalo, whose views were such that he more than welcomed a conservative group such as Chi Psi on the campus. His letter of recommendation on the high quality of the members was included in the petition for a new alpha.

About this time charters for new alphas of Chi Psi had been granted to groups at the Universities of Colorado and Oregon.

RAYMOND C. DILLINGHAM, II'10. At the time of Brother Dillingham's death in 1939, one of the early alumni of Alpha Theta Delta wrote of him as follows: "He was always an enthusiastic fraternity man and had a deep and abiding interest in Chi Psi. He was one of the most active alumni in Seattle, and those who recall the early days of the alpha at the University of Washington, will remember him as the man picked by Chi Psi to advise the local group who were then petitioning the Fraternity and to report to the Executive Council on their possibilities and progress. To him more than any other alumnus is due the success of that group in securing a charter from Chi Psi. He retained his interest in the local alpha and was a frequent and welcome visitor at the lodge. Mrs. Dillingham was also much interested in the alpha and did a great deal of work with the Chi Psi Mothers' Club. Brother Dillingham was also very active in general alumni circles and was at one time president of the Chi Psi Association of Washington. He was for many years a member of the board of trustees of the Chi Psi Corporation, the organization which owns and cares for the fraternity property at the university, and he was particularly active at the time the present lodge was financed and constructed. The passing of Brother Dillingham has left a vacancy in the alumni ranks which cannot be filled. His loss is keenly felt by all and especially by those Theta Delta alumni for whom "Dilly" did so much in the early days of the alpha. The name of Raymond C. Dillingham is indelibly and affectionately inscribed in the memory of Theta Delta, his adopted alpha."—A. B., ΘΔ'23.

Since the Oregon alpha had been instigated in large part by the Portland Alumni Association, an invitation to "Dode" Brown, II'98, of Portland, Chi Psi's first Fraternity Visitor, was extended. Having been Visitor for the Fraternity, his opinion was of particular importance, for a favorable report from him, together with the aid of the now active alumni association of Seattle, and the interest of the university administration through Dr. Suzalo, would undoubtedly be a very good omen for the success of the petition.

The go-ahead signal was given, so a formal petition was presented to the Chi Psi Fraternity in the spring of 1921. One by one the votes came in from the various alphas and finally came the last one that said the local was no longer a local but was to be an active alpha of Chi Psi.

The unrestrained joy of the members is hard to imagine. The local alumni took charge from then on and the formal initiation was held at the lodge on June 4, 1921.

The following extract from the minutes of the Seattle Chi Psi Association of June 4 relates the advent of Chi Psi on the University of Washington campus:

"The first meeting of Alpha Theta Delta was held on the above named date, June 4, and place, Seattle, at 4760-21st Avenue N.W. The meeting was duly called to order by Brother Edward M. Hay and there were present seventeen alumni and an active member of both Alpha Eta Delta and Alpha Gamma Delta. In view of the fact that sixteen neophytes were to be initiated formalities were waived, and the meeting proceeded to the work at hand. Brothers Morgan, Θ'93, and Morrow, ΓΔ'01, acted as No. 5 and Brother Hay, Θ'15, as No. 1. The following neophytes were duly initiated: R. W. Dickson, W. E. Johnson, N. L. Clark, A. D. Cover, C. E. Calhoun, A. Blogg, E. A. Ross Jr., C. E. Kettells, L. B. Shields, S. H. Kromer, L. L. Simpson, C. W. Weatherly, D. L. Moteler, M. S. Byers, C. M. M. Middleton and B. E. Palmer. After presentation of badges, the meeting adjourned."

Chi Psi was installed at Washington, but the high regard with which the Fraternity was held nationally in no way lessened the work to be done locally. The further advent of two more conservative fraternities on the campus the same year, Zeta Psi and Alpha Delta Phi, made the competition that much keener. Incidentally there are to this day only five conservative fraternities on the campus; Chi Psi, Psi Upsilon, Delta Kappa Epsilon, Zeta Psi and Alpha Delta Phi.

The summer of 1921 was spent in active rushing. Being new at the game the advice and assistance of the alumni were of untold help. With their aid and the actives' enthusiasm a splendid pledge class of ten was obtained.

The first full year as an alpha was spent in strengthening the organization and in making the brothers enthusiastic and loyal Chi Psis, for it was felt that only on a firm foundation could a lasting and truly representative alpha of Chi Psi be built. Once again the alumni responded with frequent visits and timely aid. At one time Brother Ernie Smith, ΔΔ'17, lived at the lodge, giving generously of his time. No doubt this year of planning and training and hard work had much to do with the alpha's later success.

A building fund had been started, for the alpha wanted above all else to own its own lodge. The lease on the original house of the group expired, so a move to temporary quarters on 15th Avenue was necessitated. At about this time sufficient funds had accumulated to warrant the purchase of a lot. Good fortune here stepped in and a very desirable location somewhat apart from the other fraterni-

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, SEATTLE, WASH. (Entrance to John T. Condon Hall, the law building.) Founded in 1861. From the half-hidden Blethen Chimes Tower at the northern end of the university campus, whose bells peal morning, noon and night in familiar melodies picked out by a blind musician who has been part of campus tradition since 1917; stretching past the centrally located library, the steps of which prove to be dating corners for socially minded groups; on past the recently renovated "frosh pond"; past the new $1,230,000 Chemistry Building; straight down to the Fisheries "shacks," spreads the 582-acre campus of the University of Washington. It lies between Lake Washington and Lake Union within the city limits of Seattle. On this, 10,000 young men and women stride daily to 8 o'clocks and 9 o'clocks; do their shopping on the "Av," the university business district bordering the south side of the campus; their studying at the "lib"; take their sneezes and scratches to the infirmary, and their questions and problems to Dean of Men Herbert T. Condon, and Dean of Women May Dunn Ward. To the sound of the chimes, each morning, you can see them hurrying out of the fraternity and sorority houses facing the boulevard on "Greek Row"; hustling out of the co-operative houses and boarding houses round about; and some, as the sound of the chimes dies away, dashing out of the Residence Halls, housing 300 women, which are right on the edge of the campus. Outstanding in current interest among the departments of the university is the drama division, which is winning national notice for performances in the Studio and Penthouse Theaters, self-supporting projects under the head of the drama division, Professor Glenn Hughes. An experiment receiving wide interest is that being made in the university college by Dean Edward Henry Lauer. It was put into practice by 150 first-year students, beginning in the fall of 1937. Under his plan, only one subject or course is pursued throughout the quarter, making for greater progress in the courses and more lasting mastery of the subject matter. Numbered among Washington faculty members are Trevor Kincaid, professor of zoology, who is noted for his intensive research work in that field; August Dvorak, professor of education, whose simplified typewriter keyboard is bringing him increasing recognition; Frederick Kurt Kirsten, professor of aeronautical engineering, who has contributed much to his field by his invention of the cycloidal flying machine. —CHESTER VANHOUTEN, ΘΔ'39.

ties was offered for sale by Pi Beta Phi fraternity.

The offer was accepted and the alpha now became a proud property owner. The enthusiasm of the boys waxed exceedingly warm, so much so that weekly work sessions soon had the land cleared and graded. Various plans for a new lodge were made, rejected and changed until final agreement on the present lodge was reached, along with what was thought to be an adequate plan of financing.

In the meantime, those who aided so materially in bringing the alpha into existence and getting it started on the right foot, were rewarded by having the 83rd Convention present the Thayer Trophy to Alpha Theta Delta. The youngest of the alphas, only three years in existence, and yet to receive the highest award the Fraternity could give!

Final plans for the new lodge were definitely approved and construction started in June of 1926, and the dream of owning their own house was realized at a dedication banquet on April 23, 1927. The new home, for such it was, is one of the finest on the campus. Of fireproof construction throughout, it has none of the gaudiness of some, yet lacks nothing in the way of fulfilling all the requirements of a lodge, a real home for the residents and a reason for all the brothers to be proud.

During all this time the alpha was making itself felt on the campus in no uncertain terms.

Year followed year with Chi Psi getting its share of the cream of the crop of freshmen. Not without a struggle was this success attained, for the competition was keen and with forty fraternities no let up in effort was permitted. However, the alpha remained among the leaders on the campus. It had its poorer years but none so poor that a creditable showing was not made. It has had its share of athletes, politicians, managers and editors. In the early thirties hardly a year passed but what Chi Psi had the outstanding football player, including the captain of the 1936 Rose Bowl team.

Of late years the trend has been more toward managers. In 1938, for example, no fewer than seven varsity managers sported their W jerseys at the lodge, this in addition to editors and class officers sprinkled among the brothers. Chi Psi has from the beginning been a force to reckon with on the campus.

In 1935 a new financial set-up was inaugurated. The high building costs of the prosperity years coupled with a letting down to some extent in the financial responsibility of the alpha resulted in too great a financial burden. The mortgage bonds were retired and the present financial plan adopted, a plan which seems to be the right one. With the return in the alpha once again of that financial responsibility so necessary for successful operation, no difficulty is at present foreseen.

The rushing program of the alpha has been reorganized to include active cooperation of the alumni. A rushing trip, sponsored in part by the alumni, has been instituted and covers the whole of the state. The plan has been so successful that for the past three years Chi Psi has literally "rushed" the campus off its feet.

The active participation of the alumni with the alphas is one of Chi Psi's strong points, and it is a pleasure to report that at Alpha Theta Delta the ties of Fraternity brotherhood are deeply felt from the newest initiate to the oldest alumnus. The alumni corporation, in whose name the property is held, has continued to maintain the lodge, and every year spends several hundred dollars in upkeep and improvement, having completely refurbished the second and third floors with new study furniture. The "Bull" room has been redecorated with knotty pine and houses a well stocked library. This year the exterior of the lodge has been repainted. In succeeding years this policy should not only keep the lodge a suitable home, but should also aid both in rushing and in the maintenance of interest among the alumni.

It would be unfair to conclude without some mention of the Mothers' Club. Started at the time of the local, and mainly for the purpose of helping with such minor items as mending and washing curtains, it has grown with the alpha and become a part and parcel of its life. At one time the club completely outfitted the kitchen with new dishes and the downstairs with venetian blinds, and last year the club purchased at no inconsiderable sum a beautiful carpet for the living room and reception hall. The actives are only too glad to aid when the mothers have their functions at the lodge.

The alpha has had a meteoric rise in the past from its humble beginning of sixteen founders to its present position of prestige at the University of Washington. Its ups and downs have at no time produced any serious lack of balance, certainly not to such an extent that a remedy was not quickly found. The original firm foundation has withstood the storms of vicissitude and prosperity, and the Chi Psi Fraternity need not fear that Alpha Theta Delta will at any time fail in its responsibilities as an alpha.

CHI PSI LODGE AT LEHIGH UNIVERSITY

ALPHA IOTA DELTA, established on December 15, 1923, at Georgia School of Technology, Atlanta, Ga., by Thomas Howard Mitchell, Carl Barrazzeallousce Whyte, Thomas Moore McCarrel, Jr., Asbury Broadus Greene, Jr., George Francis Seyle, Cecil Bruce Vick, Thomas Drew Body, Jr., Garry Aloysius Boyle, Jr., and Richard Wayne Wethington.

In December 15, 1923, we see a day dear to every Iota Delta man. On this day nine men were initiated as charter members of Alpha Iota Delta. From these nine men, namely, T. H. Mitchell, C. B. Whyte, T. M. McCarrel, A. B. Greene, G. F. Seyle, C. B. Vick, T. D. Body, G. A. Boyle and R. W. Wethington, began the long roster which now numbers into the hundreds. The initiation was held at the Unitarian Church on West Peachtree, with Charles E. Robertson X'01, presiding. The nine brothers, with R. T. Mallory, AΔ'26, who transferred to Tech in the fall, formed the nucleus of the alpha. In rushing six pledges resulted from hard work, namely, L. D. Rucker, J. H. Chaille, J. H. Dorey, W. E. Smith, Stamps Bethel and F. W. Armstrong.

On January 4-5 the formal installation of the alpha took place, with the national Fraternity being represented by H. Seger Slifer, E'12, Robert S. Fletcher, X'97, L. W. Cramer, I'23, Fraternity Visitor, and W. J. Eddy, the No. 1 of Alpha Iota. All the pledges were initiated at this time with the exception of F. W. Armstrong, who was taken in in the spring. The final event of this illustrious program was a dinner at Druid Hills Golf Club, which witnessed the largest assemblage of Chi Psis ever held in the South. And so was born Alpha Iota Delta.

This young alpha of Chi Psi grew, but only through struggle and sacrifice on the part of the actives. This alpha was fighting against firmly established fraternities on the campus, but the fight brought the brothers together with a strong bond of friendship which has lasted well with this group of men.

From Spring Street the lodge was moved to 382 West Peachtree and from there it took a firm stand on Third Street. Here in an old red brick structure, and with the hard work of many loyal Chi Psis, grew the plans for a new lodge for Iota Delta, which was sorely needed. Iota Delta was too young to finance this project through her own alumni and Atlanta Chi Psis were too few to carry the whole load. It was through the combined efforts of Chi Psis all over the country that Iota Delta was blessed with a beautiful new lodge, the pride of Georgia Tech, located at Fourth and Fowler Streets. This great loyalty and generosity is characteristic of our Fraternity and Iota Delta will always be grateful for the willingness of the alumni to help. Great praise goes to William P. Rock, ΨΔ'27, who was then Visitor, for being the spearhead of the attack and the man instrumental in putting over the job. Plans were begun November 6, 1928, to raise funds and purchase a lot. By March, 1929, the campaign was finished and a corner lot, 190 x 150 ft., at Fourth and Fowler Streets, was purchased, and it can be truly said, it is the most desirable spot on the whole campus. Commanding a very distinctive place on Fraternity Row, it is two blocks from the school proper. Chi Psi was then the third house to go up in the new Fraternity Row, Chi Phi and Beta Theta Pi having led the way. Today Phi Delta Theta, Delta Tau Delta and S.A.E. are all building, or have built homes, in our section.

The lodge was completed for occupancy in September, 1929. It is English Gothic in design, with the most modern planning and conveniences. In looking over the plans of the newest houses built on our campus, we find none that are as well arranged, or afford the same advantages as the lodge of Alpha Iota Delta. Too, the landscaping has become one of the talked of points in our city; through constant care and work in the last five years our grounds have now taken on the air of a very fine estate.

The Georgia School of Technology was founded in 1887 and graduated its first class in 1890. Here began one of the country's foremost engineering schools and here is the home of the 34th alpha of Chi Psi and the 8th alpha of Chi Psi to be established below the Mason-Dixon line.

In the early years of Georgia Tech, and even until 1924, the school had never been blessed with a fraternity as rich in tradiswell the number of alphas in the South to three, and bring back the old Southern spark into our Fraternity.

The formation of Iota Delta was in three distinct stages. The group at first known as the S.P.S. Club was later organized into a local fraternity known publicly as Delta Kappa Chi, from which came the eight men who were granted the charter for an alpha of Chi Psi to be known as Alpha Iota Delta.

The S.P.S. Club was organized in 1921 for the purpose of later petitioning a national fraternity. In order to accomplish this the faculty of Georgia Tech had to be petitioned for permission to function as a local fraternity. According to the school rules a club had to operate as a local before a national fraternity could be petitioned. Permission was obtained and in October of 1922 Delta Kappa Chi was formed as a local fraternity. Almost immediately a house was obtained at 540 Spring Street and a group of the members moved in.

The local fraternity, now in its very young stage, began to consider which fraternity it would petition and unanimously agreed on the best or none at all. After considering all available information Chi Psi was found to be the only fraternity which would be satisfactory. This decision was highly approved by the interfraternity council and the school itself. The tion and ideals, and as conservative, as Chi Psi. The influence of Chi Psi in earlier years had been strong in the South, and then with Chi Psi dormant in the Carolinas and only a single alpha in Georgia, we had need of another alpha to strengthen our stand where Chi Psi was once great in numbers. On December 15, 1923, Alpha Iota Delta of Chi Psi was founded, followed in 1928 by the revival of Alpha Sigma at North Carolina, to local Chi Psis were sought out. These alumni readily decided that Chi Psi needed another alpha in the South and gave serious consideration.

From this point the procedure followed in methodical steps. Burton E. Forster, N'20, Fraternity Visitor at the time, was sent down to investigate and heartily approved of an alpha of Chi Psi at Georgia Tech. At a dinner given by the Atlanta Chi Psis for the members of Delta Kappa Chi, the alumni promised their assistance. Immediately the local alumni selected eight men from the group and compiled a petition to the Chi Psi Fraternity in the names of C. B. Whyte, T. H. Mitchell, T. M. McCarrel, I. H. Granath, R. W. Wethington, A. B. Greene, W. R. Crawford and R. M. McMillan. The petition was presented at the 82nd Convention of Chi Psi by Brothers John Armistead, C. D. Cabaniss and Fair Dodd, who convinced the convention of the merits of Georgia Tech. As a result, the convention went on record as in favor of the petition for a charter. The petition was sent to the individual alphas for a vote, and after two months of anxious waiting a wire was received saying the petition was granted.

ARTHUR E. NEELEY, IA'28

The completion of the new lodge in 1929 kindled new enthusiasm in the active alpha and amongst the alumni in this section. That year we pledged the largest class in the history of the alpha to date and initiated them all. Through the year we pledged sixteen men—some who were to make history for Iota Delta on our campus. From this group came the first Anak and the only one that Chi Psi had seen at Tech. The next year, with the continued assistance of Bill Rock, we brought eight new men into our fold. It was this year that the Daniel Guggenheim Foundation chose Tech as a place for a branch of its School of Aeronautics, and from this school Iota Delta was to see some of its brothers go into the building of our nation's present-day defense. It was this year that the landscaping of the lodge took its first forward step with a back hedge, gift of the pledge class of 1930, and today it gives a beautiful wooded feeling to the lodge grounds. It was in this year that Iota Delta suffered her first catastrophe, when the lodge was burglarized and many brothers lost valuables and clothing.

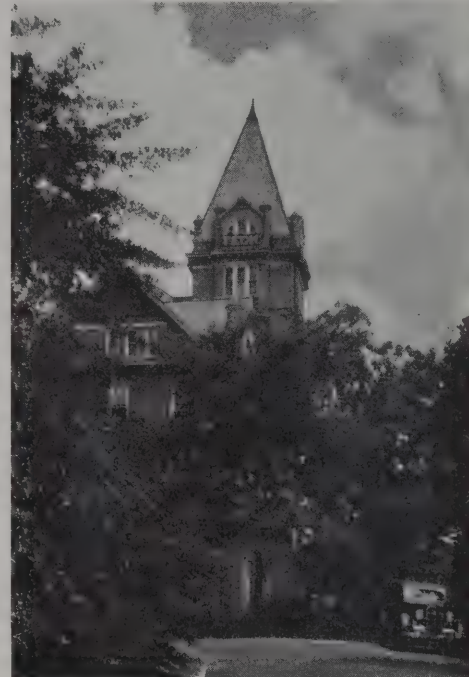

In September of '32 Iota Delta broke all records in pledging fourteen men on the first day, and we saw ahead what we thought would be the brightest year in Iota Delta's history. Our enthusiasm and interest were high until the greatest misfortune ever to fall on Iota Delta came early on Saturday morning, February 11, 1933. A fire broke out in the lodge in an unfinished space on the third floor. It was sleeting outside and there was a heavy coating of ice on the streets. For this reason fire equipment experienced much difficulty in reaching the scene of the fire, and the firemen were severely handicapped in fighting the blaze. One fire-truck met with an accident on its way to the fire, a fireman was seriously injured when he slipped on an ice-coated fire escape, the fire hydrants were frozen, and it was impossible to put a ladder up the side of the building. Finally a hose-line was brought inside the building and laid up the steps, but when the water was turned on the hose burst on the second floor, causing much water damage to the entire building. The fire was finally brought under control after five fire companies had answered the alarm, but not before fire, smoke and water had caused an estimated damage of $15,000. The loss was fully covered by insurance.

The Atlanta Alumni Association worked unceasingly to have repairs begun on the building and it was again ready for occupancy the latter part of March.

The dining room and kitchen were damaged only by water and it was arranged so that meals could be served, but most of the brothers were forced to find living quarters elsewhere until the lodge could be repaired. Many of the brothers who roomed in the east wing on the third floor lost personal effects and clothing. These losses of the brothers, amounting to several thousand dollars, were not covered by insurance.

Having suffered from the fire, the alpha was now at a low ebb. It seemed that we had lost something that would be hard to build back, but with the repairing of the lodge and the reopening in April, our outlook again became bright. In June Iota Delta graduated the largest class in history, and for so young an alpha this left us in a somewhat weakened condition. In addition to the large graduation class, we otherwise lost quite a number of active members, and the following year saw Iota Delta sink to the lowest depth in its history, pledging only four men and having an active group of ten. Iota Delta had a job to perform and through the hard work of her members and alumni—catching again the spirit of her charter members—she began to surmount what seemed impossible obstacles. The next year, 1934, with only nine active men returning, Iota Delta came through to surprise everyone with ten pledges, and we can truthfully say that it was with this nucleus that we began a revival.

Things looked much brighter and there were many encouraging happenings. It was about this time that Crawford Johnson, I'90, of Birmingham, Ala., was elected to the Executive Council—the first Southern member on the Council in some years. It was in the fall of this year that the Atlanta alumni honored Brother Johnson at a dinner at the Piedmont Driving Club and that again Atlanta saw a gathering of Chi Psis equalled only by the installation dinner at the Druid Hills Golf Club in '24. To further bolster our hopes, our alpha found that the Fraternity had chosen Atlanta as

GEORGIA SCHOOL OF TECHNOLOGY, ATLANTA, GA. Founded in 1887. The Georgia School of Technology is considered one of the best engineering schools in the world. There are twelve different courses of instruction offered at Georgia Tech, all of them excellent. In engineering the following courses are offered: Aeronautical, architectural, ceramic, chemical, civil, electrical, general, mechanical, and textile engineering. Other courses that can be taken are architecture, chemistry, and industrial management. In each of these courses you are thoroughly drilled on problems that must be met after graduation. Each of the courses is followed up with adequate laboratory work, so the student can get actual experience. Along with the laboratories, Georgia Tech also has a fine library, where the answer to almost any question that arises can be answered. The purpose of the school is to give training as well as education. Since Georgia Tech is located in Atlanta it is possible for the student to visit various industries and see just how he can be of service after graduation. Also at Tech there has been established a co-operative plan, by which a student may work his way through school by going to school three months and then working three months. The school helps the student get a job along the same line of work as his studies. In addition to the undergraduate school, Tech also boasts a splendid graduate school. It is in this school that most of the experimental work is carried on. Here at Tech there is a great variety of military training offered. There is an Army and Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps here which offers the very best in military and naval training. During the year 1936-37 there were 2,948 students enrolled, of whom 676 were freshmen.—ROBERT H. CROSSFIELD, IA'40.

the meeting place of the 94th Convention of Chi Psi.

Now came a succession of years when Alpha Iota Delta ran on an even course. Each year witnessed successful rushing and nothing else of great importance came to pass. During this time was the beginning of a tradition, in the gift to the alpha of a carved oak chair, which the No. 1 uses as his seat of honor at all meals. It was during this time that the alpha saw its first member elected as a president of the inter-fraternity council. It was during this period that the alpha began its first newspaper, The Cracker, which has died a death unbecoming a good publication.

In 1938 Iota Delta began its fifteenth year of existence. A small class of only eight men were pledged, but in it we saw strength from two Georgia towns, Savannah and Columbus, where Chi Psi could be seen taking a lead. With the best morale in many years, with a feeling of security, and with a large number of alumni present, the alpha celebrated its 15th birthday on December 15 with a dinner at the lodge. This year witnessed our highest scholarship—third from the top in a list of twenty-three. The next year the active list was the largest in history, the lodge was practically full, but it must be recorded that activities were at low ebb.

It is a great feeling to go down the stretch with our sister alphas and come to the finish of the first one hundred years of our Fraternity. We are proud of our pledges and actives will make Iota Delta an alpha of which our Fraternity will always be proud.

CHI PSI LODGE AT THE UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

ALPHA KAPPA DELTA, established on December 15, 1924, at Yale University, New Haven, Conn., by Paul Bancroft, Jr., William Blackstone Chappell, Richard Claytor, Francis Mitchell Coates, James Daniel Stetson Coleman, Frederick Bradley Collins, William Harvey Cushing, Richard Dana, William Windus Knight, Jr., John Clarendon Lord, Harris McIntosh, John McLaren, Smith Lewis Multer, Jr., Lawrence Mason Noble, Russell Lee Post, Guy Richards, James Granville Tremaine, George Herbert Walker, Jr., John Davock Warren, Charles Watson, III, and Robert Hawthorne Wylie. Robert Stillman Fletcher, X'97, Lawrence William Cramer, I'23, and Abbott Kittredge Spencer, O'25.

KAPPA DELTA, now in its eighteenth year, has in spite of its youth weathered two hurricanes successfully. The meteorological one in 1938 passed over the lodge with hundred-mile-an-hour gales but left it completely unscathed. The economic one from 1932 to 1937 hit the lodge with brutal force, leaving a virus which is not completely eliminated but against which the youngster is holding its own.

Chi Psi came to Yale University in 1924 when undergraduates concerned themselves more with social activities than with academic pursuits; when the nation was entering upon that boom period which came to such a disastrous climax; when the Yale undergraduate looked upon membership in a fraternity as the sine qua non of his career, and when none-too-respectful critics were conceiving such epithets to characterize Yale's staggeringly large building program as "A bigger, not a finer Yale."

Five of the strongest nationwide fraternities were already ensconced in the Yale campus. These solidly entrenched Greek letter orders which admitted only students in the academic department were: Delta Kappa Epsilon, Psi Upsilon, Alpha Delta Phi, Beta Theta Pi and Zeta Psi. The university, having been persuaded that Chi Psi met all the requirements necessary for foundation, opened its doors in the fall of 1924. The Interfraternity Council, feeling that it was in the interests of the existing fraternities to welcome another, granted "free packing" of twenty men a year for the first three years. And Yale University made the concession of permitting the fraternities to serve meals in their houses.

And so on November 6, 1924, Budd Champlin, ΔΔ'18, and Raymond Lull, I'25, then a junior in the Scientific School of Yale University, began their task of convincing members of the sophomore class to forget their aspirations for the established fraternities and join Chi Psi. During the next few hectic weeks, under the leadership of John W. Anderson, E'90, then President of the Fraternity, funds were secured which made possible the lease from the university of the old home of the Wolf's Head Society, which was immediately remodeled to suit the needs of the new Chi Psi alpha.

The result of the frantic activity of lining up the first membership was so successful that it established Chi Psi in a position of first-rate importance from the outset. Twenty-one of the most prominent members of the class were enrolled, and the Interfraternity Council was so astounded by Chi Psi's coup of "stealing" all the best men from the other established units, that it passed a resolution congratulating Chi Psi and giving permission for the extra member.

The final welcoming ceremony to the new group took place on December 15 in the lodge room of the new lodge, R. S. Fletcher, X'97, officiating, assisted by L. W. Cramer, I'23, and A. K. Spencer, O'25. The ceremony was concluded by a speech of welcome to the newly initiated members of Alpha Kappa Delta by Sam P. Blagden, O'96, in the banquet room of the New Haven Lawn Club. After the Christmas vacation, the first elections were held with Brother Champlin in the chair, resulting as follows: Charles Watson, III, No. 1; J. D. Stetson Coleman, No. 2; Lawrence M. Noble, No. 3, and Russell L. Post, No. 4.

During the three years that followed in which Chi Psi was allowed to pack its members, the new fraternity stood head and shoulders above every other competitor on the Yale campus. But it needed a lodge suitable to its needs of a membership of sixty undergraduates, so that it ing was possible. Other contributors were members, their friends and interested Chi Psi alumni. The present lodge, occupied in 1929, is the largest and finest on the Yale campus and has seen the steadiest of use since its opening.

The years from the first graduating class in 1927 until 1933 passed with Chi Psi maintaining its leadership with Deke and Psi U at the top of the list. Two new fraternities came to the Yale campus: Alpha Sigma Phi and Alpha Chi Rho. Times were easy, Kappa Delta flourished with Brother Charles Watson as its alumni guiding light, the '29 crash and resultant depression were only headlines and material for academic discussion, and all was well with the alpha.

Then the storm broke. Yale University embarked on a program for breaking up the undergraduate body into college units, not the least disturbing feature of which program was the enforced paying for ten meals a week in the college unit dining hall. The program was first instituted with the Yale graduating class of 1934 in the fall of the preceding year. And it was soon discovered that the colleges were could compete on a par with the other fraternities when it began to go forth on its own.

So it was that in 1928 plans were made for a new lodge. Again Brother John W. Anderson proved himself to be a foundation pillar of Kappa Delta, for it was largely through his efforts and his substantial subscription along with that of the late Andrew W. Mellon, father of Paul Mellon, KΔ'29, that the new build-planning to engage in social and cultural activities which would tear the foundations from beneath the fraternities.

But this was not all. The depression, slow to have its effect upon the bulk of undergraduates, struck finally with a fierce intensity. The result of excesses surrounding initiations on the part of all the fraternities alienated a large proportion of the faculty, and it was common knowledge that extremists supporting the so-

YALE UNIVERSITY, NEW HAVEN, CONN. (Noah Porter Memorial Gateway, with Calhoun College on the right, Berkeley College on the left, and Freshman Commons ahead.) Founded in 1701. Yale University has now almost completed its change to the college plan, with nine out of ten or eleven colleges completed, each housing about 200 students. Jonathan Edwards, Timothy Dwight, Trumbell, Davenport, Pierson, Saybrook, Calhoun, Berkeley, and Branford, are the names of the colleges which are now the centers of social life at Yale, each being equipped with a dining hall and common room, and each having its own "master" and "fellows" in the manner of Oxford and Cambridge. These units contain a cross-section of students in the university, all classes in both Sheffield and academic departments being represented. The university is far from disunited by this plan. The academic side is unchanged, with students from all colleges and dormitories mingling in the classroom. The social factor is the distinguishing feature of the college

plan. In the dining hall and common room is a social center which is the most convenient and pleasant meeting place on or off the campus. The buildings of Yale, the Sterling Library, the Payne-Whitney Gymnasium and others too numerous to mention are magnificent. However, fine buildings have not taken the place of the more essential values, fellowship and intellectual training. Rather, the beauty on every hand is an inspiration to finer intellectual activity. Religious work in chapel and active service in various organizations are ably carried on with faculty leadership and student organization. Fraternities are still well established at Yale, and have been and will be a haven in college where fellowship remains a potent factor, and where the facilities for dances and eating are fully appreciated by the members as well as the rest of the university, who profit by the open dances and other entertainments. As one of the first American universities, Yale has a long tradition of merit and usefulness, and as a growing, virile institution it remains true to that heritage.—THEODORE D. DAY, KA'40.

called "College Plan" advocated complete abolition of the fraternities, and that this group found a welcome ear in administration circles.

Thus, having to fight on several fronts at once, and stunned by the simultaneous and swift culmination of several factors, while laboring under heavier academic schedules brought about by the College Plan, Kappa Delta found itself all of a sudden in a nasty predicament. The administration did not like the fraternities; the College Plan struck violently at their sources of income and at their social advantages; high costs went unpaid and the tax collector's spectre became a daily fear; a ten-year mortgage agreement was several years overdue; there was increasing pressure from the membership to increase the number of scholarships; revenue from social activities and the grill fell off; the Yale News began to attack the fraternities. It looked mighty black.

The jolt which perhaps did more than anything else to awaken Kappa Delta to the seriousness of the situation was twofold: Brother John Anderson came to New Haven to deliver a stirring "wake up" call, and Alpha Delta Phi closed its doors at Yale for once and all. As a result several members of the '34 delegation under the No. 1, John H. Jackson, began to take the decisive action that was necessary for survival.

That Kappa Delta weathered this storm is largely due to this group. Expenses were cut to the bone; collections were insisted upon; dues, which compared very unfavorably with the other fraternities, were adjusted slightly downward; a new spirit was inculcated into the membership. Another jolt toward improvement came from the passing from the Yale fraternity scene of two more orders: Alpha Chi Rho, which closed its doors, and Psi Upsilon, which severed its national allegiance and became nothing more than a social club.

It was not long before Brother Anderson came to the assistance of Kappa Delta again. Once he saw that the "new spirit" was willing but weak, he generously offered to help meet the $13,000 back-tax bill by giving $8,000 provided that the alumni would match it with $5,000 within a few months. The impetus was sufficient to make the drive a success in spite of the nationwide bad times, and by the beginning of 1938 Kappa Delta was free and clear of current obligations.

On the basis of this record of tangible accomplishment, the mortgage was renewed and put on a business-like basis. Payments on the principal of this mortgage have been made in the face of the past three troublous years. It is still large, however, and represents a definite stumbling block in the way of real progress towards a solid footing. It is the largest mortgage of any of the Yale fraternities, and as such represents a fixed charge which compels the levying of higher dues than the other groups, leaving Kappa Delta at a considerable disadvantage in that respect.

During this period of travail those who have been the guiding lights have been constantly amazed at the widespread attitude of co-operation and willingness to help not only on the part of a large number of the alumni but also of an increasing number of the undergraduates year after year as well. This cannot but bode well for the future.

The present situation at Kappa Delta would be hardly recognizable to a member of the first class of '27, even as it is occasionally startling to the Fraternity Visitors. There are no sleeping quarters in the lodge, for this is not permitted at Yale. There is little social activity, except for meetings and weekends, because of the nature of undergraduate life at Yale calling, as it does, for more and more hours of academic work. Meals are well attended in spite of the fact that half of the weekly meals must be paid for at the resident colleges whether eaten or not. The procedure of rushing, taking place in sophomore year, has undergone a complete metamorphosis in which more seriousness prevails and from which the rowdiness tinge of a past era is eliminated. Yale has five fraternities in place of the eight of ten years ago, and because of the College Plan it is an undeniable fact that they play a lesser part in college life than they used to. It can be said in all fairness, however, that Chi Psi and Delta Kappa Epsilon are the only two which have made a real adjustment to changing conditions, and of these the job of Kappa Delta's was by tenfold the more difficult.

What the next ten years will indicate for Kappa Delta no one dares predict. Changing times have wrought a vast change which, to date, Kappa Delta has been able to meet. If there is a future for fraternities at Yale, Kappa Delta will not only be there, but will be among the few at the top of the list.
